YA HOO!! The always spirited Lori Hunt shows her enthusiasm as she goes from room to room judging for most spirited class on the Grossmont campus.

1, 2, 3, GO! Bringing home the Musket this year from Helix High School was one of the greatest things to happen. Here the varsity cheerleaders show the pride of Grossmont, holding their colorful run-through banner.

CATCH OUR SPIRIT! Blue and Gold are our colors representing spirit and pride. Deca class participating in the class spirit competition express their excitement about being a Foothiller.

Widely spread throughout the school are the Sights and Sounds of Grossmont. Being a part of the spirit and pride of the Foothillers is a special feeling all of us share. At the football games we can almost feel the heads and bodies crash together as our fighting Foothillers tackle our opponents ... All of us stand for the pledge of allegiance and showing our pride ... Anticipating, watching, just waiting for her to serve that volleyball ... Heads pounding, eyes bulging, minds scrambling, it's exam time ... All of this done to learn and become intelligent, educated adults. Only we together share these special feelings of spirit and pride. We, the students, together, learning, living, and being a part of Grossmont High School.

Amar,
You've been a great friend all year; we've had so much fun. I'm really pissed that we don't have any classes next year, but I'm sure I'll see you around school. Have a great summer, and I hope to see you. Give me a call.

Love,

See the Spirit

The first day, students slowly approached Grossmont's enormous campus with many questions, thoughts, dreams, and hopes. A.S.B. members and faculty worked together planning various functions in order to welcome them. The traditional "Little-Sister Picnic," joined together this year with the "Little Brother Picnic." This set the pace of involvement.

Chanting cheers such as "We've Got It" and watching the funny skits and dances let everyone have some fun at the Pep Assemblies.

G.H.S.'s sports had us on the edge of our seats. We watched the scoreboards light up ... VICTORY! And the glorious pride yelled by fans and team members ran chills up all of our spines. We all belong. We all See the Spirit and Hear the Pride.

High fives and hugs were abundant this season for playoff hungry footballers.

Closeness and the desire for involvement saw Wendy Hodgetts and Don Steele working on Club Day sign ups.

On a woman hunt, Brad Roppe stalks wary Lisa Howe through the Fashion Show.

 Hey you

Hear the Pride

Obvious enjoyment shows on the faces of students taking in a Friday night football game. The Hillers fielded their best team in many years and attendance was way up.

Rusty Beatty and Liz Lee portray the very romantic couple from "Gone With The Wind" as part of the Fall Fashion show. Students flocked to the Old Gym to view the styles.

Welcoming the Class of 1990, new Grossmont principal Robert Brady shares his impressions on the spirit of Grossmont High. Brady brought many new ideas with him to GHS.

Activities

With a western theme, Mark Capelletti appears to represent Grossmont's own Marlboro man at the fashion show.

Hundreds of people rush into the old gym and seat themselves. A hush falls on the crowd as the excited students wait in anticipation for the pep assembly to begin. Students crowd the blue stage at lunch trying to get a better view of the activities. The buzz of excitement spreads through the crowd at a football game. Everyone's got the Hiller Spirit!

During this past year, Grossmont spirit was shown and pride felt by students and teachers alike many times during the numerous events that were scheduled. Homecoming and Halloween brought dress-up days. Spirit and pride were increased through competition during the Blue and Gold room decorating contest. Red Ribbon Week involved all in a common effort to "Say No to Drugs." Pep assemblies and football games energized everyone's spirit.

These are just a few of the activities that made it easy for Grossmont students to capture the spirit throughout the year. The excitement could not be avoided, whether one was a spectator or directly involved. Activities which took place this year made memories to last a lifetime.

Hear Our Pride. Tracy Weber ignites Hiller spirit and pride as her voice rings out through the crowd at a Friday night football game.

Eat it! Noel Gillespie encourages messy faced pie eaters at the lunch time pie eating contest. Lunchtime activities become highlights for a typical school day.

Blue and Gold Spirit. All dressed up in cheer uniforms, Peter Vinleris and Larie Ruskin show spirit for room decorating.

Daisy Chain escorts '86 graduates into future

The glaring sun shone down upon sharply creased white tuxes and yellow taffeta dresses, tight shoes pinched toes, and the dirt from the green ivy left creases inside the palms of hands.

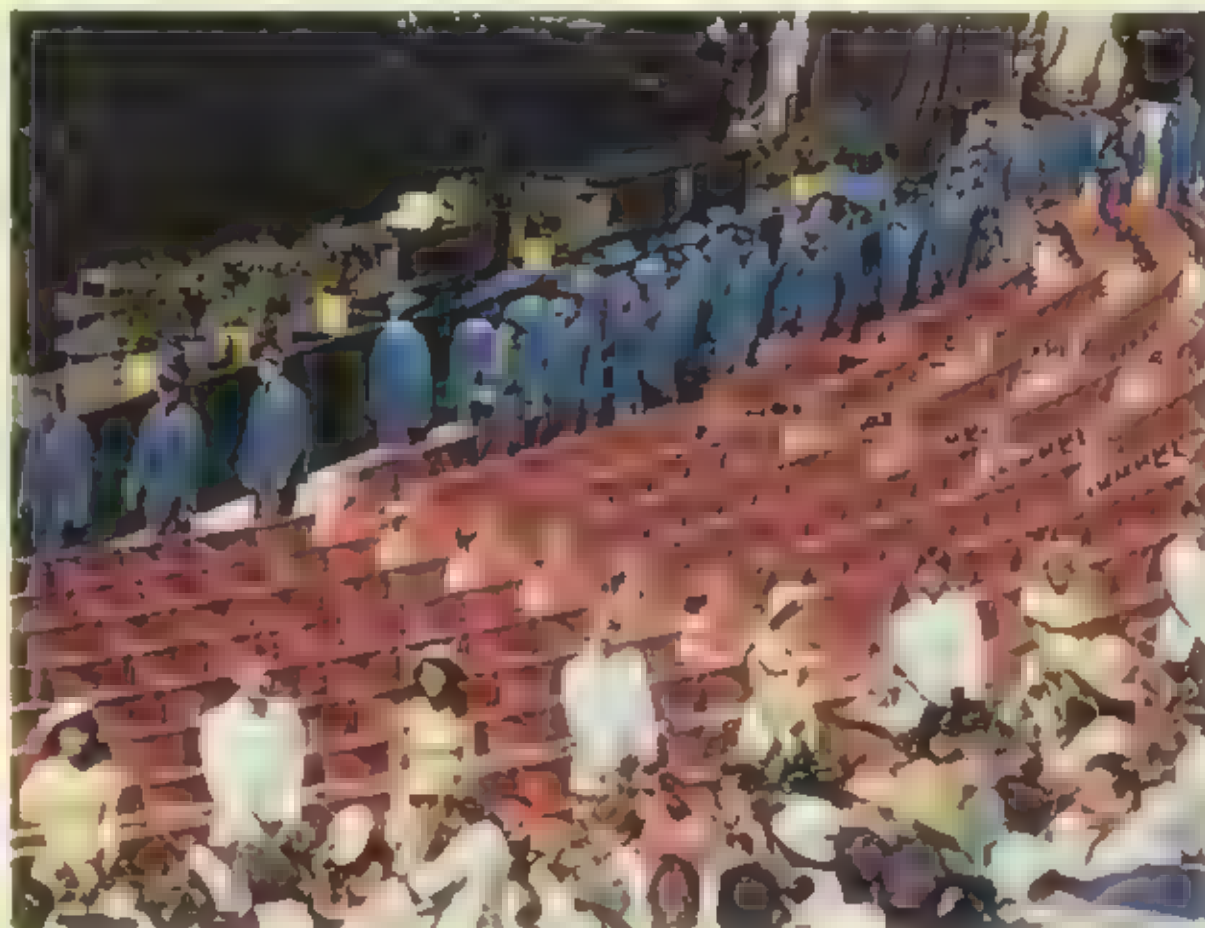

1 PRIVILEGE? Well for 20 girls, 20 boys, and 10 ushers, it certainly was.

The Daisy Chain led the class of '86 into the Greek Bowl at San Diego State, and acted as a ceremonial guard.

Last May, candidates were nominated by faculty members on the basis of school service, grades, and activities. A total of 50 students were then chosen.

Daisy Chain members and ushers spent the last day of school intertwining daisies throughout the ivy chain; this proved worthwhile as the Chain continued the tradition that has existed here at Grossmont since the early 30's.

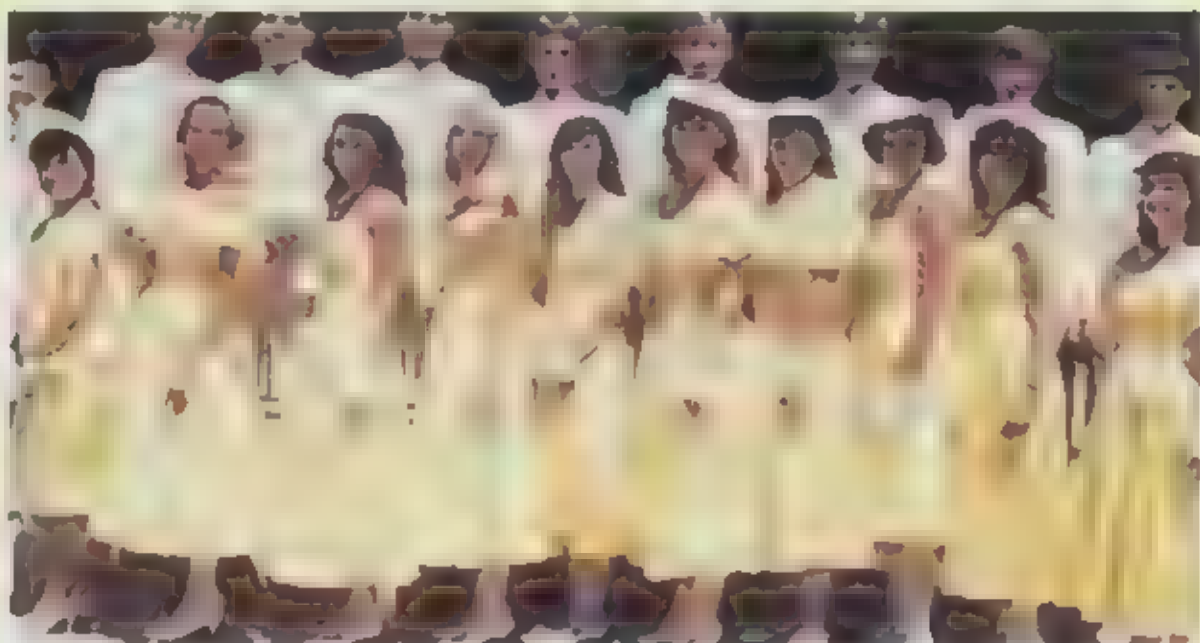

As the '86 graduates begin to file into the Greek Bowl, Daisy Chain members act as an honorary guard.

Divided into two groups, the east and the west, Daisy Chain members entered from separate sides and joined in the middle to form a whole chain. The east side members were J. Adams, R. Burwell, D. Carlson, K. Corcoran, K. Crucitt, N. Gillespie, M. Harris, L. Holmgren, M. Jacobs, M. Paul, K. Rowbotham, R. Shamoun, S. Sodano, D. Stark, A. Temple, J. Thornton, E. Tyrell, J. Weaver, A. Woods, and K. Zavala.

Lorie Ruskin and Kevin Corcoran seek advice on how to complete the chain from Counselor Ashman.

While many people were anxious to be Daisy Chain members, only the elite few were selected. The members who were on the west side were R. Anthony, S. Busby, M. Clavell, M. Donnelly, M. Dotson, M. Fountain, S. Haight, S. Kline, J. Kong, K. Laughlin, V. Le, C. Manderson, T. Pearslev, R. Richard, L. Ruskin, H. Ryan, M. Savary, J. Smith, D. Strauss and Dawn Voss.

Sorting through ivy, Jenny Kong and Dawn Voss begin to wrap long strands of green leaves around a rope which will, when finished, become the traditional chair.

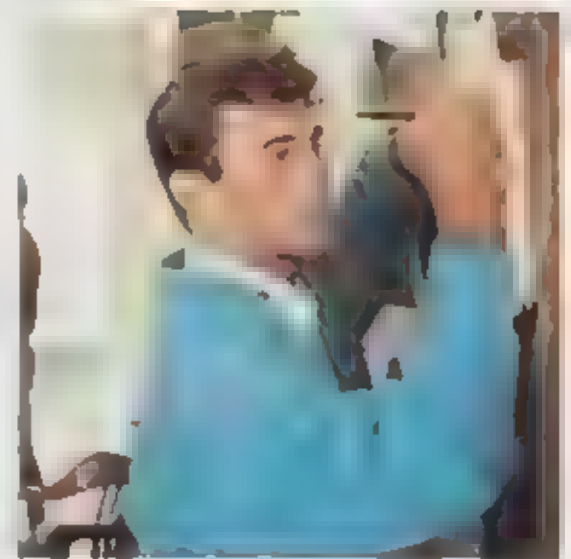

Before threading the daisies throughout the ivy, Jennifer Smith admires the chain stretched out upon the floor.

Usher Erin Nelson hands out programs that outline the ceremony to come. The other ushers were B. Bernhard, G. Fontana, A. Hodge, K. Hopkins, L. Lee, D. Sperber, K. Wangler, T. Washington and A. Wright.

ASB Leadership:

Staffed with two returning officers and three returning class members, the new ASB leadership class dove into the school year with splashes of new ideas and goals for the school year. Leadership and responsibility were elements instilled into both the officers and class members beginning over the summer when the class met to discuss activities ranging from Hello Week to commencement ceremonies for graduation. The summer meetings served a three-fold purpose: to work around the needs of both the student body and faculty, to enhance new activities and assemblies as they were unique, and to create enthusiasm and school spirit as never before. With all the planning and effort put out by the ASB into the school and various activities, they have definitely made "A Splash of Leadership" this year.

GHS spirit climbs to the top with 86-87 V. Cheer

"Hillers, hey we've got it" For many the year officially began as the 86-87 V Cheerleaders' school pride and spirit rang out in a wave of cheers at Grossmont's first pep assembly. The 86-87 year brought the revival of a male addition to the cheer squad, the Grossmont High School Cheerleaders. Students flock to Expo Day; join clubs for fun!

One after the other, students flocked to the upper quad at lunch to sign up for their favorite clubs. Along with the traditional organizations like Girls' League, also available were new ones such as the Cycling Club. This not only gave students an opportunity to get involved, but activity Expo '86 turned out to be an overall success

Homecoming week brings out spirit

Homecoming week brought us a new sense of spirit. Numerous people crowded around the blue stage at lunch to watch the court take part in the week's activities. This annual event generated much enthusiasm throughout Grossmont. The week was cut short by a day off to celebrate Veteran's Day, therefore the festivities kicked off Tuesday. The first event was the heart balloon relay race. The contestants were paired in twos and they had to blow up the balloon, put it between their chests, run to a certain point and back, and then pop it. Mike Clavell and Lorie Ruskin won it by a wide margin. Wednesday also brought more excitement; the one and only licorice eating contest between the court. They again were split into pairs of twos. Mark Cappelletti and Tina Megna showed what they were made of by winning it in record time! The next event came on Thursday, and it was the famous jello slurping contest. Each member of the court was given a plate of jello, and then was instructed to eat it as fast as possible. This was truly a fierce competition as each one tried to gulp down the jello. As the contest went on many of the nominees stopped to watch the winners finish licking their plates. The winners were Kevin Corcoran and Lorie Ruskin, as they proved that they truly were champion jello slurpers! Friday was the day everyone had been waiting for as homecoming '86 had finally arrived. Lunch time brought about the annual and always delightful pie in the face. An honor saved for the male and female who received the most amount of money in their envelope during the week. Mike Mengoli and Tina Megna earned the honors. . . . To end the week there was the fair. It was very well done and enjoyable. This year's homecoming was very exciting and fun for all who participated!

Hollywood brings excitement to . . . Grossmont

The ten standouts for the Homecoming Court were chosen by their peers for their work and dedication that they put into GHS. It was a way of recognizing them and showing them that we appreciated their service to the school. Each club on campus was able to nominate one boy and one girl to represent their club. The Seniors then voted on the final five to become the Court members, and finally the entire school voted for King and Queen. The Queen was announced at the football game, while the King was revealed at the dance.

Mr. Plum announced, as the five queen nominees stood shivering in the cold night air, clutching their escorts. "... HEATHER RYAN!"

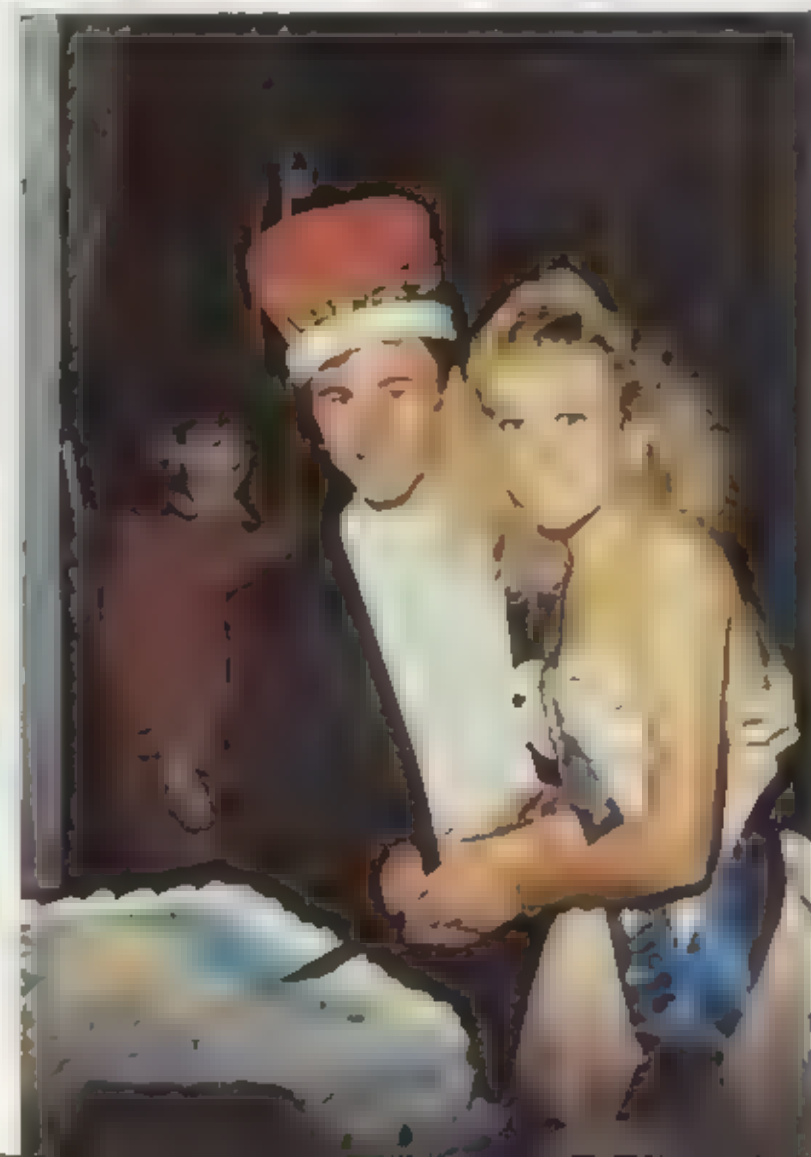

This enchantment started at half time when a brightly colored hot air balloon floated across the field with last year's couple. After the crown was placed on Queen Heather's head, she was taken to the balloon by brother Jason, her escort, for a trip to the dance.

Following Grossmont's victory over El Capitan, more than 300 students joined the court at the dance, where Kevin Corcoran was selected King with great enthusiasm. Heather and Kevin were joined by all the nominees for the traditional slow dance and the cutting of the Homecoming cake. Everyone dispersed into the dark night with memories of Homecoming '86 etched in their minds for years.

To really catch the meaning of the El Recuerdo's theme, this year's spirited yearbook staff dressed up representing the various clubs and organizations on campus. What a perfect way to present the "Sights and Sounds of Grossmont."

The El Recuerdo Staff Presents "Sights and Sounds of Grossmont"

Striving for perfection, the 1986-87 Annual Staff had a tough job ahead of them at the beginning of the year. With only five returners from last year on a staff of thirty-one, it was an uphill climb all the way. But pulling together their various talents and using each individual's creativity, this year's annual was sure to be a success.

The hard work began last spring at the end of the school year with training meetings for the new staff. Instead of an editor-in-chief, nine section editors were selected, each presiding over a different section in the book. Many long hours, late nights, and weekends were spent throughout the year by the staff to put the yearbook together. Determination was their motto, and Mr. Brown, advisor of the Publications Class, was always there to give encouragement and offer his expert advice. He kept the staff on pace with his continual reminders, "Remember, folks, deadline's coming up!"

In the end, the hard work paid off. The annual was a success, and the staff felt the satisfaction of a "job well done." The "Sights and Sounds of Grossmont" could be seen and heard by all who enjoyed the book.

Echoes still number one in San Diego

Foothill Echoes was favored to retain its number one ranking among San Diego County high school newspapers for the fifth time in six years

The Echoes returned to a tabloid format after a year of experimenting with a magazine-type format. Advisor Geoff Anderson felt that the change would save much needed funds for the acclaimed paper.

Much of the success of GHS's Echoes could be attributed for Mr. Anderson, whose desire for a sixth top ranking was evident in the countless hours he spent helping the staff members in order to complete each issue.

Advertisement Managers Debbie Britton, Holly Holt, and Brooke Sigler are the vital staff members that coordinate, sell, and organize all advertisements in our number one paper.

Hard Work. Ambitious members of the Echoes staff, Chris Manderson and Chanel Rayle strive for absolute perfection as they piece together the final drafts of Echoes.

Grossmonters keep their campus litter free

Keeping Grossmont High School "litter free" had been an endless campaign for our clean campus competition with other schools. Throughout the school year, judges rated the cleanliness of GHS's grounds, bathrooms, and classrooms in order to compare with other participating schools.

The three "grading periods" in which the judges appeared on campus unannounced, determined whether or not our school, out of all the other ones, would win up to two-hundred dollars.

In December of 1986, Grossmont High was rated a proud first place for keeping its beautiful campus litter free.

With help from considerate students and such a hardworking staff, it was a great success.

real story of Hiller's spirit and pride

Spirit and Pride blazed through the halls of Grossmont. The students and teachers enthusiastically participated in many memorable events. The teachers dressed up on most Fridays in blue and gold. They also led car drives and competed with their home rooms for better fireworks at Homecoming. On the other hand, the students participated at lunch time activities, performed in pep rallies, and supported the Student Awareness Week for the fight to stop drugs. Team spirit was high this year, many sporting events got to be competitors in C.I.F. The Hillers were brought together for many different reasons, but the thing that stands out the best in all is their Spirit and Pride!

Convention '86 soars to new heights

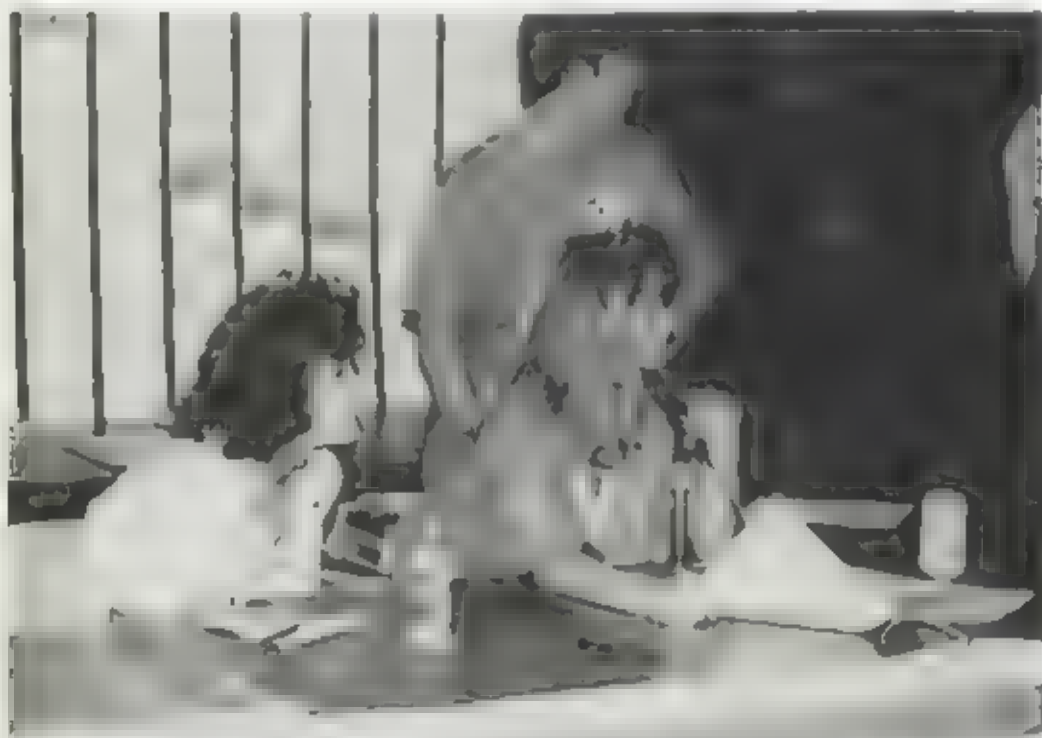

Confetti litters the floor and streamers are scattered about the old gym turned convention hall. An occasional helium filled balloon comes untied from its bouquet and floats to the ceiling. The roar of the delegates, tallies, pages and sergeant-at-arms slowly comes to a hush as the lights dim and the next speaker is announced delivering his speech. The speech over, the excited roar begins again as cheers fill the air, and the delegates carefully consider and reconsider the best two candidates for each office.

Grossmont holds the record for the oldest convention, dating back thirty-one years. A theme is chosen each year, encasing the candidates attitude towards the convention as well as the office he is running for.

This year's theme was "Soaring to New Heights". The convention was held during the primary elections, and its purpose was to narrow down the candidates to two per office. The candidates were free to conduct their campaign any way they chose. Buttons, posters, banners and even t-shirts displayed witty campaign slogans. When it came time for their speeches, many candidates recruited friends to help them with creative skits.

HALLOWEEN SPARKS STUDENT'S CREATIVITY

Although Grossmonters were too old to go trick-or-treating they still celebrated in their own special way. Students displayed their creativity in their costumes. There was a variety of costumes which ranged from striking baseball and football players to fictional cartoon characters. There were the usual witches, hippies and 50's style delinquents. Grossmont makes it fun for those that wear costumes with a costume contest that is held at lunch on the blue stage. They each had the chance to show off their costumes while competing for the winning prize — Christmas Dance bids.

Holiday Pageant promotes peace and good will Sixty one years ago the first Holiday Pageant made its debut at Grossmont High School. It soon became one of the most popular shows in San Diego County. People came from out of town to attend and often stood in line for hours to buy tickets.

Over the last few years the attendance has dropped. With this apparent growing lack of interest, along with the tremendous amount of money, time, and effort involved, not to mention class time lost by many performing students, the question was raised — "Is it worth it?" But determined

G.H.S. students circulated petitions to save the Pageant. They were able to raise needed funds by setting out donation boxes and charging admission. Because of their efforts the Pageant was able to go on as usual. The performances were well done and enjoyed by many. Hopefully the Holiday Pageant will continue to promote peace and good will at Grossmont and the community for many years to come.

Outstanding Off campus talents evident at GHS

GHS students are given the opportunity to display their talents through various campus clubs and junior varsity and varsity sports. The talent of some students is not limited to just that of school related activities, especially those who have taken their abilities to the regional and national levels.

Motorcycle racing is not just a sport for junior Ron Attig, it is a hobby he has enjoyed for four years. The trophies and pictures littering the rooms of Ron's house influenced his decision to race, although his dad discouraged him because of the risk of injury factor, common to motorcycle racing. Ron practices on weekends at the Carlsbad Race Track, and also during school vacations.

Irish dancing is a major part of senior Shannon Knapp's heritage as well as her everyday life. Shannon has been dancing for six years, and has held the title of Miss Ireland of San Diego for three consecutive years. She has participated in the Open Championship Division for two years and has performed in thirteen states, and hopes that these experiences will help her gain the status to compete in the World Championship Irish Dancing Competition, held annually in Ireland.

Fascinated by the sport of Ice Hockey at the age of six, senior Gary Gorrell, has been playing ever since. Gary is currently playing for the San Diego Stars, a team in the Amateur Hockey Association, on which he plays defense and also serves as assistant captain of the team. When the Stars are not playing at home at the U.S.I.U. arena the team is traveling to other cities which have included Quebec City, Montreal, Los Angeles, and Pasadena. Gary's future in pursuing a professional hockey career is uncertain, but he will finish the season which includes the State Championships in April.

Maintaining a 4.0 GPA is hard work for sophomore Shelly McTighe, who works equally hard at gymnastics. Shelly has been active in the sport for seven years and began competing regularly five years ago. Her workout place is housed at the S D S.U. Aztec Gymnastics Club where she works out four hours a day during the school week and two-and-a-half hours on Saturdays. Shelly hopes that the competitions will give her the experience, endurance, and grace needed to receive a scholarship to UCLA.

Freshman Melissa Canrinus made her acting debut at the age of six in the original "You belong in the zoo" commercial for the San Diego Zoo, and has been acting and dancing at the San Diego Junior Theater since the age of seven. Her talent has brought her honors at the Miss Junior Teen San Diego, where she was chosen Miss Photogenic and first runner up, and also at the Miss Junior Teen Southern California, where she was chosen third runner up. Melissa prefers acting over modeling and will pursue that field in her future studies.

A positive self image is what senior Mica Alvarez is all about. A model for six years, Mica is now the head instructor at the Sevier and Associates School of Modeling and Self Image. She has also been chosen as an ambassador for the Coca-Cola Fashion Board, where one of her duties is to go to different high school campuses to teach a positive self image through modeling, and she also assists with their fashion shows at the end of the year.

any chika bonita, que pasa? well, we actually made it through a year with the dreaded constitution board. Just think I get her next year. I'll think of you the whole time! Remember the first day of school when Ms. Blen made you stay after class? It's been all down hill from there. I'm really going to miss you next year. I hope we have some classes together so we can be honorable together! I will never forget when Ms. Blen said, "Please be honorable" and I will be.

are really terrific friends and I will be.

Shortage of acts doesn't hamper Airbands energy

Grossmont's airband competition, not as successful as it has been in past years, was still enjoyed by all involved. An airband is a way to express the kind of music you listen to. For a few minutes you can be transformed into your favorite musician to feel just a tiny bit of the glory your "star" may feel when performing. It takes a lot of nerve to get up on stage in front of 1,500 people and lip sync for three or four minutes. When asked, "Why did you decide to do an airband?" Jeff Lapp replied, "I did it to feel that feeling that's felt when you feel for something!"

"Shout" by Otis Day and the Knights, was a big hit with the audience, placing third in the competition. Rob Santoro really gets into his role, helping clinch first place with his sax solo, in the song "Money" by Otis Juice.

Dr. Dean subjects brave students to hypnosis

Taking students through many conditions such as extreme heat and thirst, Dr. Dean put students through hypnosis. It was a strange thing to watch. These hypnotized students no longer had say over what they were doing. Dr. Dean had their minds and bodies in his total control. They were asked to do things, such as singing and dancing uninhibitedly in front of a roaring crowd

During the second season of the Foothiller Boy's Volleyball Club, there was much improvement. This might partly be due to the excellent coaching of new coach Debbie Kane who lead the girl's team to CIF. However, it is also partly due to the fact that 11 out of the 14 players this season were returners from last year. Though there was disappointment that this was not an official sport in the Grossmont League the team was happy with the support they have received

Lively pep assemblies spark Grossmont spirit

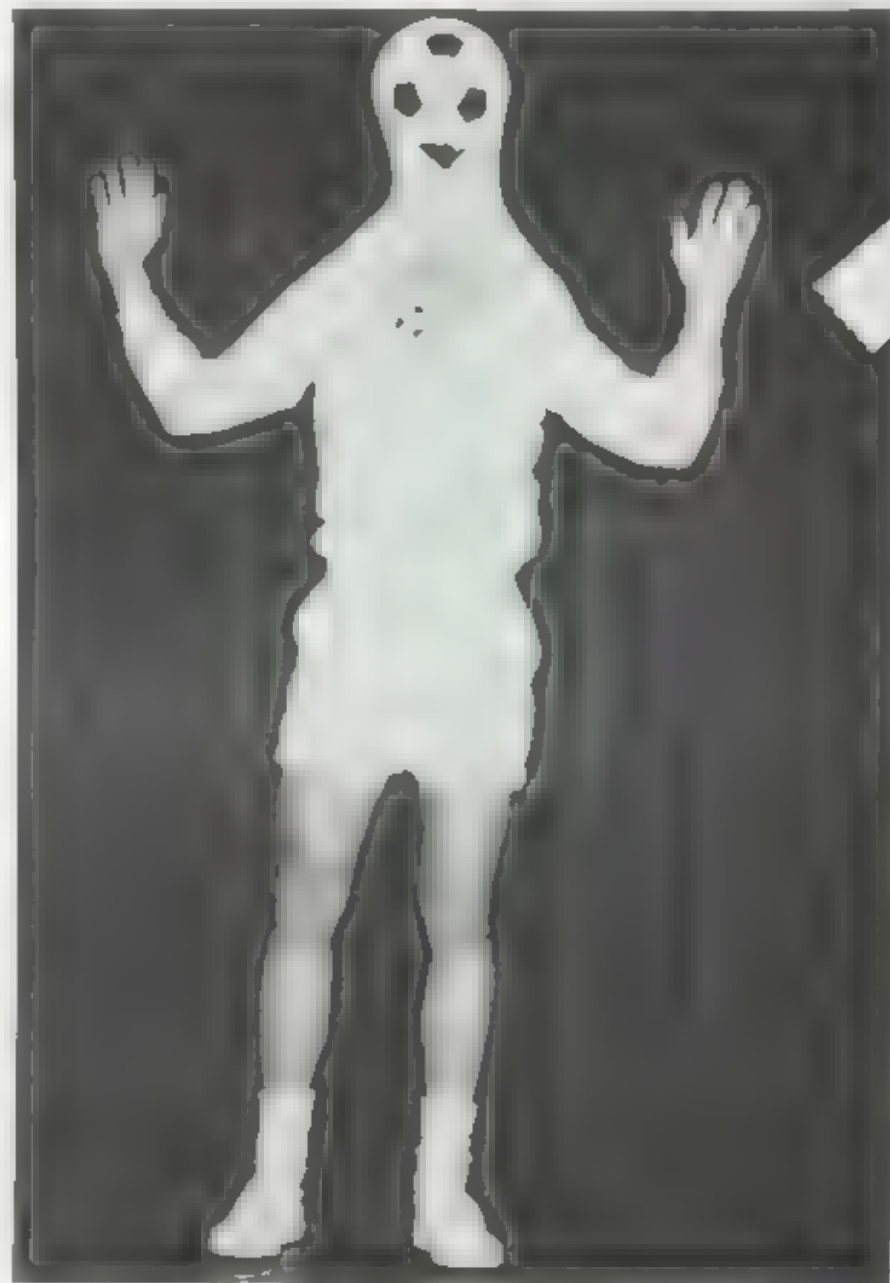

You could hear the laughter and see the excitement in the faces of hundreds of students seated together at pep assemblies. These Friday assemblies, organized by Spirit Commissioner, Lori Hunt, featured a variety of attractions, all doing their best to fire up our spirits for the night's game. How can we ever forget such great performances such as the volleyball C.I.F. moon The water polo flash (psyche!) or Brad Roppe and Tom Horton's Bartles and James commercial takeoffs?

They not only lifted our spirits, but also helped build a feeling of pride and unity in Grossmont

Candid cameras catch campus cavorting ...

Just when you thought it was safe, yearbook photographers zapped you during the year. While most photos were used in specified layouts, some seem to warrant use just for the fun of it. Whether they catch people off guard in crazy antics or just capture the essence of a particular moment, they help to show the character of Grossmont.

Academics

Since the new graduation requirements have gone into effect, it has given students an incentive to work harder in order to both graduate and get accepted into the college of their choice. The new requirements are stricter on the years of math and science taken, as well as requiring more credits gained from academic electives, such as a third year of a foreign language, or a fourth year of math. Advanced placement courses are offered, making it possible for students to gain college credit for certain courses taken during their junior and senior years. Another program offered to benefit the students is the Regional Occupational Program, which places the student in a job to gain both school credit and job experience that will help him to find a job requiring that

Creativity yields satisfaction, beauty in Art Dept.

Through art, students are given the chance to reveal their talent and creativity in a variety of fields. Drawing, pottery, photo and painting were the major areas in which students participated when enrolled in art classes and they produced projects worthy of use in district calendars, art contests, photo competitions and the campus literary magazine, Obra. In addition trips to museums, art shows and special speakers enhanced classes.

Working the wheel — For some pots was a mark, and for others a many students found the activity so much fun that they could not stop.

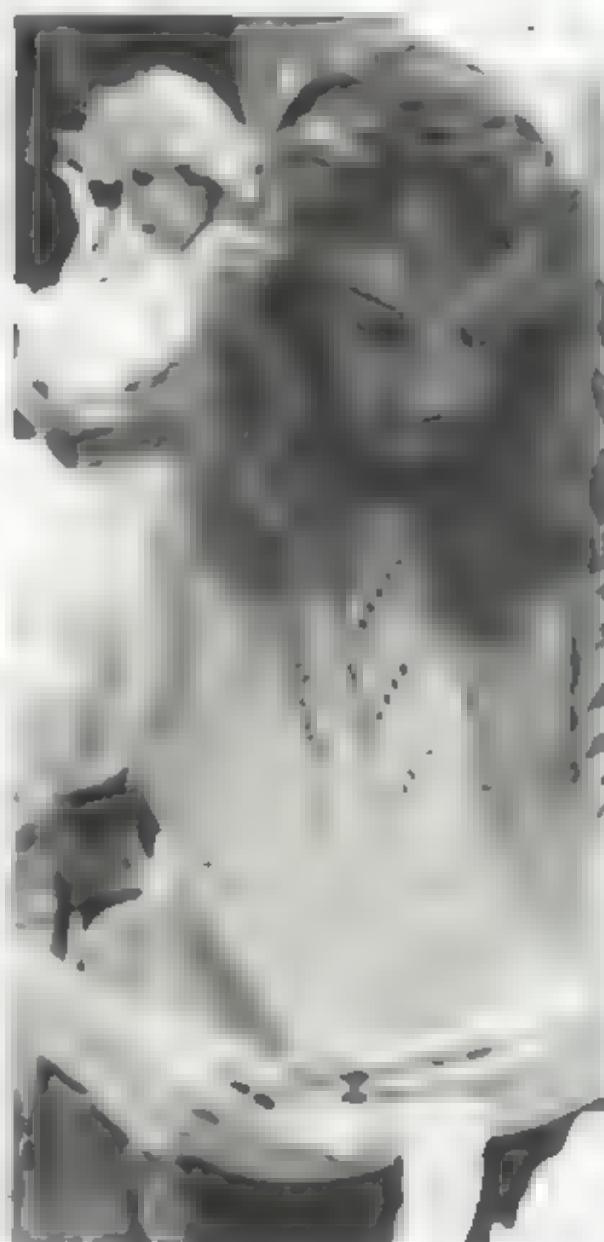

Mask in the making — Brian Carlton prepares classmate's face for mask molding by placing paper strips strategically.

Preparing materials Marla Matavowsky works with the paper she will use in making her mask. Cutting and soaking were key steps.

How should I paint it? Chris Curran listens to instructor tips on finishing his mask by painting it with tempera colors.

Pretty messy despite covering up in aprons and towels, having a mask applied was often a sticky and gooey proposition for art class.

Instrumental music develops solid sound of success

Music is a big part of student life at the high school level, especially for those with ideas about being a performer. Hiller musicians got ample opportunity to develop and display their instrumental talents throughout the 1986-87 school year. Under the direction of Jim Nichols, the marching band, stage band, pep band and select groups of performers took part in parades, shows, the Christmas pageant, pep assemblies and joint performances with the vocal music department.

Along with the performances came awards in competitions at the district, local and regional level. Based on their expertise, several Grossmont students were invited to play in community or "all star" groups.

Beyond the award consideration students gained the chance to develop in music an art which will give them a lifetime of personal pleasure and expression.

Brass rings out with power — much of the body of sound generated by the band came from an experienced brass section.

Rhythm section — percussionists helped to provide band with the bottom line rhythm very evident in marching situations.

Listen to that Sax — Dan Stark plays sax as band practices under the direction of Jim Nichols. Practices paid off at performances.

Hitting the high notes — flutists contribute to a light and airy number during practice. High and low notes in every chair fall in hand.

Program stresses learning from and for children

Child Development is a class taught by Mrs. Lundv. In this class students are taught things, ranging from sewing and different art projects to learning the care of a child

Grossmont's automotive program displayed the finest to be seen in vocational programs. Students developed real usable skills which were tested on their own and faculty vehicles. With Ken Lehr's capable instruction, the members of the class showed in automotive competitions that they knew how to keep things running smoothly. Many students moved right into industry jobs

World of language opens up eyes to cultures

From Mexico City to Heidelberg from Paris to Madrid, the culture available to Grossmont students through the Foreign Language Dept. was endless. While the classes gave college bound students a chance to meet entrance requirements, they impacted a great deal more in enriching personal experiences. Students gained the ability to speak and write in foreign languages, thus allow — them to enjoy vacations, pen pals and foreign language papers but also gained some important insight into the common traits of humans from every nationality.

Spanish, French and German were the official offerings in the department, but field trips and exchange students were part of the program.

Attentive listeners — Spanish students tune into explanation from instructor Carlos Ortiz.

Testing auditory skills, Mrs. Quick plays a Spanish language tape for class to hear.

Math classes yield college concepts, consumer skills

From fundamental skills to the most complicated theorems, the math program offered students a chance to gain useful information for their future. The department was geared to both help students remediate fundamentals and work with concepts applicable to what is sure to be crucial in science

Displaying some of the finest in student produced literary work, El Recuerdo, Foothill Echoes and Obra developed students with a wide range of editorial, artistic and photographic talents. Each publication provided the writers with an opportunity to have works published and brought to the GHS student body material which was insightful, provocative and very entertaining. Each publication received awards for excellence.

The science department offered various science classes to fit each student's interests as well as their schedule. For the graduation requirement, basic science courses such as the physical and earth sciences and biology were offered. Higher science classes like chemistry, physics, and the accelerated AP courses including chemistry, physics, and biology were an option for those wishing to fill pre-requisites for colleges.

Biology at its best

Biology has just become a requirement for graduation, and most students opt to take it their sophomore year, unless they plan to enroll in the new-added AP course their junior or senior year. Biology is the most basic of the higher sciences, and is the easiest to understand, according to most students later enrolled in chemistry or physics. Biology encapsulates most subjects of the life sciences, spending chapters on evolution, cells, invertebrates, genetics, and ecology. Labs are also included in the course outline, which gives the students lab experience needed for later science courses, and also helps the student better understand the concepts of the unit at hand. The year spent in biology gives students an idea of which science they wish to pursue the next year

Students scramble to keep up with GPA demands

Many people realize that getting good grades is difficult, and keeping them is even harder. There are many ways of studying made evident at GHS. Some students wish to work on last minute touches before the bell rings, during lunch or come in after school for help. Either way students will do what they can to keep up their grades

Valedictorians make the grade, prepare to speak

Becoming a valedictorian takes a lot of time and hard work. These students have held a 4.0 throughout three of their four years at Grossmont. They have worked hard and accomplished quite a lot. These students are well admired for their accomplishments and hard work. They didn't just spend all of their time studying but also held down part time jobs and were involved in extracurricular activities. Most of them were enrolled in honors or AP classes, and excelled wonderfully in them. All the hours that these five students have put into school are now paying off. They will all move on to separate colleges and become as prosperous as they can be. You, the valedictorians of 1987, we congratulate you for all you have done

SENIORS

Screams of spirit shot out of mouths, blue and gold attire flashed in the sunlight. The class of '87 was determined to make their senior year the best possible.

Many seniors were glad to finally get their "senior" year for this meant "good lockers," a chance to purchase a parking space, and the senior prom.

As the year progressed, traditional thoughts raced through minds. College applications and financial aid forms, full-time jobs, interviews, talking to recruiters about the military, and of course the thought of completing four years of high school.

School pride and spirit will not end after graduation. The class of '87 will always be proud to have attended Grossmont High School.

Because drama students have gained experience through three years of acting at GHS, seniors are often given lead roles. Mike Dotson, Gretchen Hall, and Timbrely Pearsley spend many hours rehearsing for the play, The Children's Hour.

By helping with one of the many booths at the Homecoming Fair, Renae Marshall reveals her school dedication.

This year's seniors are the first to wear the traditional blue and gold cap and gown at Grossmont's own Jack Mashin Stadium.

Chanting is one of the best ways to get a group of students to learn a lesson. The teacher can lead the class in the chant.

Leadership in action

Leadership has taken a very important role among seniors here at Grossmont. Leadership has been represented in many ways throughout the year. It ranges all the way from club and class meetings to lunch time activities. Shown here are just a few examples of how seniors express their leadership abilities.

Top Right: Tina Megna eagerly begins the lunchtime meeting for the prom and graduation committees.

Hello? Telephones on Grossmont's campus are always occupied by students during lunchtime. Jennifer Jensen makes a quick call to a sick friend while sipping her Diet Pepsi.

Like most things in life, being an underclassman is inevitable. Many people reflect upon these years as being some of the best in their lives. Being a freshman is confusing at first, but it gets easier as you go. They have to cope with final exams, class credit, and being called freshmen for the first time.

The sophomore year is harder because this year's GPA really counts for college. They get serious about homework and learn that dissection can be fun.

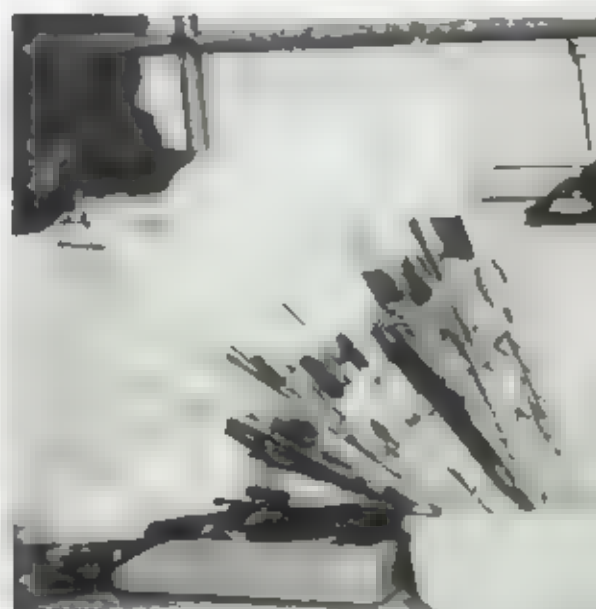

The junior year goes by rapidly because now you can drive, take part time jobs after school and take many of your hardest classes like chemistry. They also take the SAT and prepare for college while looking forward to their senior year.

They will always remember these four years. They'll hear the bells ring, the national anthem play, and pep assemblies roar. They'll also see their friends in school spirit and good times.

Yumil Josh Gillen snacks on a ham sandwich as he hides behind his history book from Mr. Buller, his teacher.

Flowers for sale. Sacrificing their lunchtime, Wendy Hodgetts and Karin Overstreet sell roses for the Sophomore Assembly.

Heave! Cle Quijencio shows her support by collecting canned foods during second period for the can drive to help needy families.

Chit-chat Underclassmen talk over lunch

Creativity. After school in the Publicity Room, Angela and Adina Lamprecht work together to make a motto poster for the day's big game.

Juniors push on to make final year the best yet

The Junior class has accomplished many things this year. They have participated in many fund raising activities such as two car washes, Hotdog stands, and game booths at the fair. They showed their compassion when they threw a free party for Juniors, in order to collect toys for kids at Christmas. Advisor, Mr. Foggiano is the class of '88's third advisor. He has proven how committed and enthusiastic he is being their newest advisor. He expects to be available to serve as the class advisor through graduation, because the Junior Class — the Class of '88 — is almost there!

Junior Class Officers: Debbie Britton, Laura Roberts, Meghan Foster, Annette Delor, Lana Bianchi, David Cohen, Cle Quijencio

This is a black and white photograph of a yearbook page featuring a grid of 60 individual student portraits. The portraits are organized into seven horizontal rows and eight vertical columns. Each portrait shows a young person from the chest up, facing forward or slightly angled. The students exhibit a variety of hairstyles and clothing typical of the mid-20th century. The overall composition is formal and structured, characteristic of traditional school yearbooks.

Special Education: striving for excellence

Not always seen, and not always heard, yet always there. Special education is an active part of Grossmont High School. Diligently participating in the pep assemblies as well as other school activities, these kids are a special part of Grossmont's student body. Taught by some very talented teachers they looked towards the future as they strived for excellence

As you walk through the many malls of San Diego, you can see many familiar faces. Not only those shopping, but also those working. Many Grossmonters have joined the working force. Realizing that they need money to enjoy the pleasures of life, they set out in search of jobs, and many have succeeded in finding one. The variety of jobs range from fast food to clothing, but each serve the purpose of income.

Kim Peterson helps a Miller's Outpost customer during the busy holiday season. Carol Hughes, a Gap employee, struggles to keep a stack of jeans from toppling on her. Service with a smile. Bobby McGee's workers, Brian Collins, Shannon Roberts, and Jay Miller pose to have picture taken.

Grossmonters join the working force

Illegal Parking; A Common Problem at G.H.S.

Grossmont parking lots are full of illegally parked cars in the morning hours. Because of the new tardy policy, students at G.H.S. take the risk and park in the red zone, district parking lot, or in other unauthorized places. The new Senior parking spaces, which were auctioned off at the beginning of the year, give Seniors a break, but unfortunately, underclassmen do not have the same advantage.

What? No parking? Students at G.H.S. risk getting a ticket just to get a convenient parking place for the day.

Juniors build momentum, focus on performance

Juniors worked hard at keeping busy this year. Whether it was classwork, helping out at one of the Junior Judiciary activities, or just going out with a few of their friends, this was a very eventful year for the Junior class

Oops! It seems as though El Recuerdo has caught Junior Holly Fleming off guard in a moment of distraction away from her Algebra III

Everyday about noon, groups of friends gather together to discuss the latest happenings. With Dan Wise, Mike Weber, and Jamie Marsh it is no different. Talk about subjects from dates to parties, to skateboarding and that 'big test' were just a few of the subjects discussed

Flicks remain top entertainment among students

When Grossmont High School students want to escape from the everyday rigors of school life, they go to the movies. From down-under to outerspace to the arms of Tom Cruise there has been a wide variety of movies to capture everyone's hearts. Most of the students will be found at the Santee Village 8 because of reduced rates for students. Whatever type of person you are, a brain, a jock, a basket case, a princess or a thief, there is a movie for you!

A FAVORITE of Grossmont students is Eddie Murphy. This time he's back in the Golden Child.

VOTED BEST MOVIE of the summer Top Gun was a favorite at Grossmont. For girls -- probably because of Tom Cruise. For guys -- probably because of the air scenes.

"GOOD DAY MATE!" says Paul Hogan as Crocodile Dundee from down-under.

Determined sophomores aiming towards the future

Along with a strong council an energetic sophomore assembly contributed a very important part in raising money for the class. Fund raisers were conducted throughout the year and this led their financial status to rise. Numerous accomplishments were made by these ambitious students with a little guidance from their dedicated advisors

Friendships lighten the load of a hectic day

Through the good and bad times at school students always had their friends there to share the laughs with and at the same time alleviate the pain. It might be between classes when they pass through the halls waiting to see that shimmering smile on that certain persons face. There's the lunch time gang, your English buddies, and those brief acquaintances that make life a little more bearable

Foothiller Fashion Fiends

"What's in today is out tomorrow," so the famous saying goes. Although there are trends and fads that die out and are forgotten, there are always certain fashions that are so uniquely different that they stand out. Boots were a common sight on campus, ranging from plain and short to ones with colorful designs with studs and rhinestones. Girls' long hair was pulled back and caught at the back of the neck with a bow, or it was pulled all the way up in a banana clip. As the months go by, the Foothillers search frantically for the boldest, the brightest, the most outrageous with one objective in mind: to be the first.

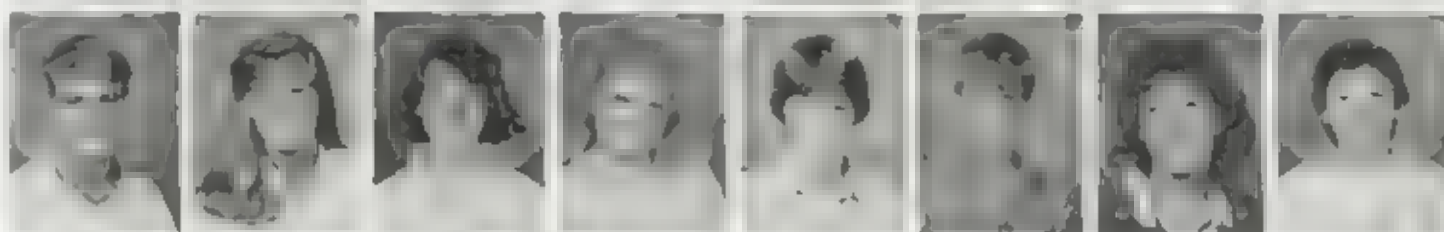

Lana Bianchi and Jerelyn Heinrichs model the first in hair trends, the banana clip.

Students express their feelings through their unique personalized plates

This year was the first time seniors had ever had their own parking places. Many students took the time to personalize their spaces by painting some of their biggest interests. It seemed to work out real well

Oh Wally, that was a guy who really liked bumper stickers

Perched on the steps, sophomores occupy their daily lunchtime position and talk over such hot topics as girls, surf and music

In their own group distinct from the guys, sophomore girls share the most recent gossip and rest from classroom rigors

Frosh officers set sights ahead for a strong future

Where's the library? Where's room 12? Can you tell me where Mr. Plum's office is? These are just a few of the many questions students ask when they first arrive at GHS. After a few weeks, however, students learned new things about GHS everyday. All the Freshman officers showed their enthusiasm and interest in their class by starting the class of 1990 off to a great start. They began to fill up their treasury with various fundraisers such as the celebrity auction, selling pizza at Homecoming, a t-shirt sale and cleaning up after home football games.

Rest and rowdiness mark summer vacation trips

Summer vacation is probably the most exciting and awaited time for students. Traveling with family and friends over vacation is how most students spend their three month leave. Whether it be spending hours at the beach, staying at camp, seeing sights in the U.S. or traveling to another country, students meet new people and see new sights. Some people stayed near home this last summer for the reason of the hijacking scare on planes while others took advantage of the low rate fares.

Grossmont sounds off to a new scene in music

Grossmont High School students enjoy various amounts of different kinds of music. Everything from Iggy Pop, "Cry For Love" to Ratts, "Smoking In The Boys" Room. But a new state of music seems to have hit hard on Grossmont High School. Run DMC, "You Be Illin" and "Walk This Way" have been two of the biggest hits this year

Students shop choice spots for value, fun

September: School clothes and school books. Christmas dance dresses and tuxedos. Crushing Christmas crowds, wrapping paper, ribbons and tape, putting finishing touches on presents. Wrapping birthday presents, anniversary gifts or special day packages. It didn't matter who it was for shoppers took the time choosing something for that special occasion. Favorite spots include — Grossmont Center, Fashion Valley and Mission Valley.

Neiman-Marcus is a choice spot for students with more discriminating tastes and less discriminating wallets. This is not an average bargain store.

Hungry students fill local food spots at lunch

Eating, what a great thing to do for fun with friends. Local food spots often are filled with students at lunch and after school. The choices of where to eat are unlimited. The fast food hot spots are where most high school students are seen having fun and pigging out. Hungry yet? Eating out could be the best part of the wonderful day of school.

Grossmont campus, community combine to stage

Open house and Red Ribbon week in late October, turned out to be a lasting success. Students proudly wore red ribbons to show their enthusiasm for the war against drug use. Parents gathered at Open House to show their concern about drug abuse and to learn what their children are learning in education today. Paul Gardner, Dr. Dan Watson and Robert Bower were guest speakers at the PTSA meeting. The entire meeting focused on drugs and made the parents and students more aware of substance abuse in high schools today.

In the crowd, Dotty Lange and Lori Boysen listen attentively to one of the guest speakers at the PTSA meeting.

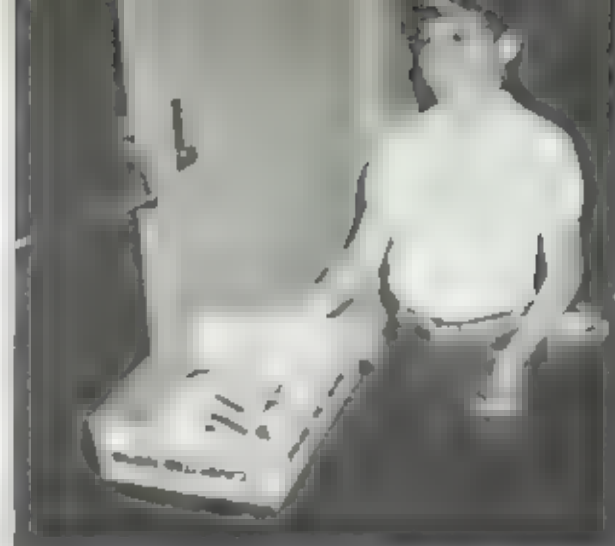

Marleen Behan, President of GHS PTSA begins to introduce the meeting and each of the guest speakers.

Talking about his life and outstanding success, Paul Gardner told parents and students a humorous and moving lecture.

Enthusiasm. Renee Marinetti got excited as she urged fellow students to join Girls' League, a club open to guys and girls

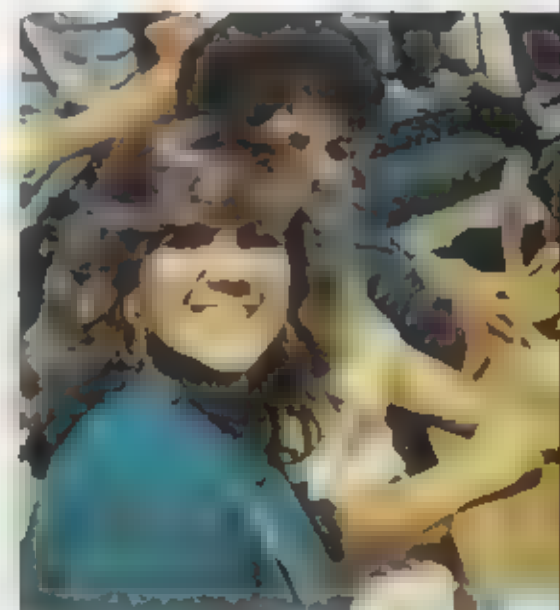

With over 30 chartered clubs and organizations, Grossmont students stayed active. Noon seemed to be the busiest of all hours. Students had to constantly ask themselves, "Which meeting should I go to?" Clubs were supposed to schedule in advance the time they wanted to meet on the master calendar. That didn't always happen though. This caused the problem of poor attendance for meetings.

Many of the clubs' activities went beyond campus projects. The Girls' League held their annual canned food drive to help the needy in December. SADD promoted awareness about drugs and alcohol throughout the community and the Senior Senate along with the senior class started a tradition, new to Grossmont. That is, this year's graduation was held in Grossmont's stadium.

Creativity went beyond club projects with the founding of some new clubs on campus. To name a few there was the Animal Club, Chess Club, Poetry Club, and Chess Club. Grossmont students showed their spirit and their pride as they cheered, competed, tried, failed, and started traditions of their own.

Legionnaires. During the 1970s, Grossmont supported the Swiss Senate.

Spirit. Karen Rook's face was glowing as people crowded to be a part of the Spirit Club

Clubs, clubs, clubs and more clubs. There were so many different clubs to join, like Encore. Above, Genevieve Bakunas tried the new club

What is now the past and part of Grossmont's history has been a year to remember for our Red Robe Choir. Not only did they succeed in keeping up the honored tradition that our choir has mastered over the years but in addition had a new advisor. Mr. Basilio came into the class with refreshing and interesting new concepts which improved the choir's overall achievement. When asked what he thought made the choir so special, Mr. Basilio replied by stating, "Unity, regardless of the student's economic background or home atmosphere all students are equal in the ability to sing."

Behind all the glory came hard work and dedication. The choir will go on lifting our hearts and souls even if it's just the memories that we're hearing

Royal Blue Regiment produces spectacular sound

Many hours of practice has paid off for the Royal Blue Regiment. At Chaffey, the band received the highest music score of the Blue Ribbon Bands. Overall, they came in second place. They also performed at Disneyland, San Dieguito, the Music Bowl Tournament, Mother Goose Parade and were also featured on National television in the pre-game and halftime of the Charger-Raider game in November. The director, Jim Nichols, has helped make the Royal Blue Regiment the most talented and enthusiastic in our district.

"Grossmont dancers dazzle"

As Grossmont's advanced dance class performed at talent shows, basketball games and pep rallies, they enlightened the stage with their strength and gracefulness.

Ms. Harguindeguy has the quality of a good dance teacher," Shannon Brown said.

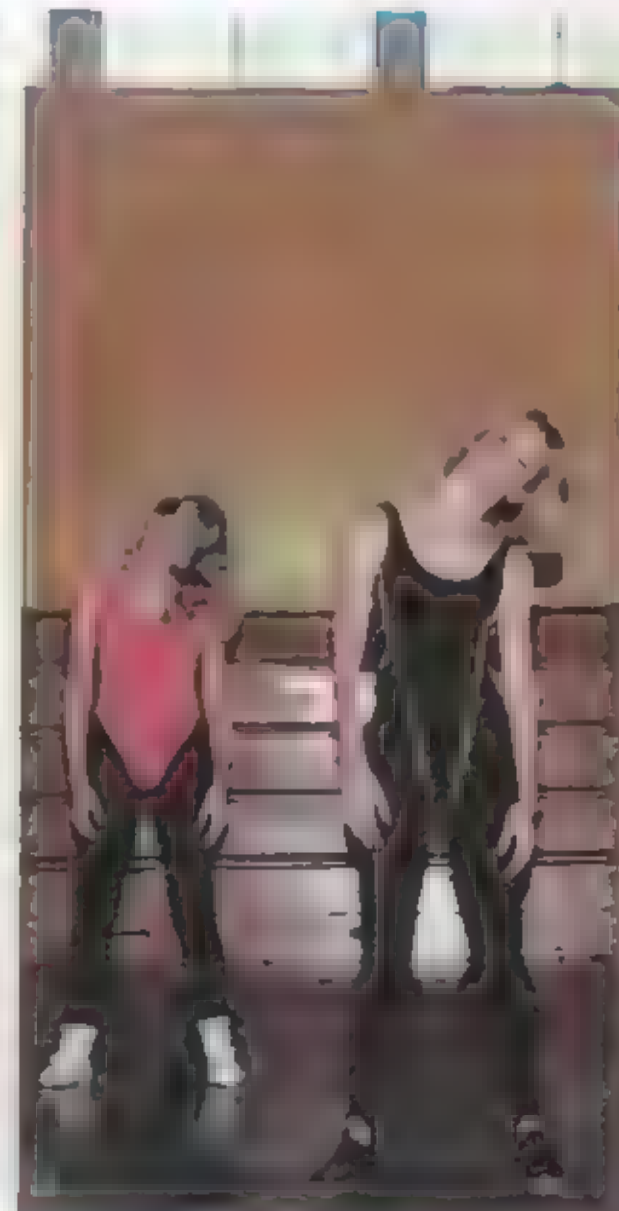

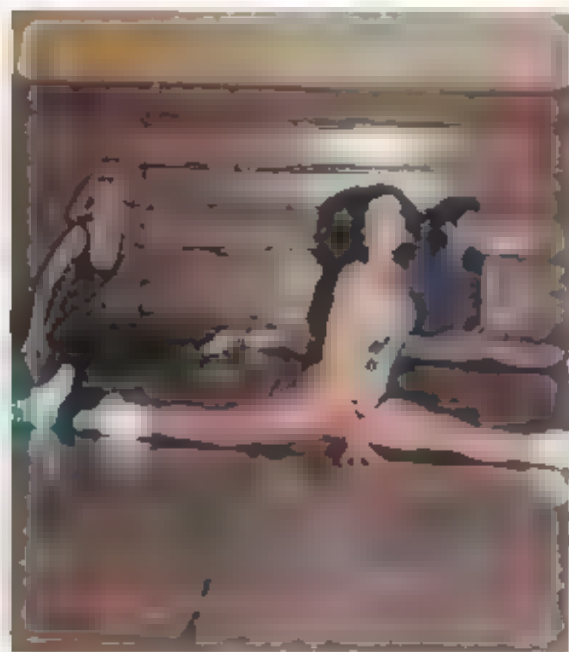

Dance takes a lot of time and planning. The class assists in building up muscles and acquiring balance. To be a righteous dancer students must have patience and devotion. Students must be willing to put more time in a dance than an hour a day.

Many of the dances the class performed were choreographed by Joeann La Russa.

International Club sees opportunities

Known for encouraging all GHS students to get involved, the International Club has grown in popularity. Having over 65 club members, including foreign students, the I-Club tried to promote friendship and understanding among foreign exchange students and Americans. The supervisors, Peg van den Akker, Peter Pitard, and Alec Pennv involved the students in activities throughout the year. This was to let them see the customs, cultures, and ways of American life. Some of the events of the year were a Padre game, the Feld Ballet, and a beach BBQ party. The events also included trips to Tijuana, BC, New York, Washington DC, and Williamsburg. All of these made up the "American Experience," one of which would not be forgotten soon. "American life is very different." Bl

A big "olé" for our cultured Spanish Club

¡Divertirse! Having fun, that's what the Spanish Club is all about. But also to "interact and develop friendships with other students that are interested in hispanic culture and language," says President, Julie Goble. Spanish was mostly spoken at their social functions so that the members could utilize all they had learned in their classes. From selling candy bars to taquitos, the club alone had grossed over $1,600 during the year. And what did they do with all their money? They had pizza parties, bought Christmas presents for the Mexican orphans and donated a VCR to the Spanish Department. ¡Bueno Suerte!

Girls' League has expanded through the years and now even has members from both genders. Headed by Mica Alvarez, Girls' League took charge of many functions such as the Little Sis-Big Sis picnic, canned food drive, powder puff football, and the spring fashion show.

Fund raisers such as Ghost Grams and the homecoming booth raised money for further expansion.

Mrs. Jerry Lundy, advisor, helped guide the club in the right direction for her second year. "She has been an inspiration," said Alvarez.

DECA is Excellence in Action

What is DECA?

DECA is a co-curricular program that works hand-in-hand with our own marketing course at Grossmont. Running Hillers isn't the only thing we do. DECA members learn marketing skills and the club provides the chance to use these skills in competition. This year GHS DECA traveled to Long Beach, Salt Lake City, and in March to Palo Alto to compete. These conferences were the most exciting activities offered by DECA. Success in competitive events took hard work and dedication but the rewards of travel, recognition, and, in some cases, scholarships or valuable contacts with corporate leaders were well worth it.

A whirlwind of DECA activities includes campaigning, selling and enjoying friends.

Covering the school with bold and colorful posters, our enthusiastic members of the Publicity Club kept GHS students well informed of school events and all athletic activities. SADD helped spread the word to students of the dangers of drinking and driving. Even though this club was only in its second year at Grossmont it proved to be one of the biggest clubs on campus. A big part of the student body was involved with SADD. There were over 45 members.

In San Diego alone over 50 percent of all fatal car accidents were caused by drinking drivers. Students against drunk drivers fought to beat the statistics. The bumper stickers stated it the best, "Friends don't let friends drive drunk."

Speech and Debate Team brings honor to Grossmont High School

The Grossmont Speech and Debate Team is a regionally competitive squad, traveling as far as Tulsa, Oklahoma, and Cincinnati, Ohio, to participate in the various events

The team competes in many tournaments during the year, but the four big ones are the State Qualifiers, State Finals, Districts, and then the National Speech Tournament. At these tournaments there are different categories in which a speaker may choose to compete, such as Debate, Oratory, Impromptu, Dramatic Interp., and Extemp. The judges, which team member, David Cohen states, "are a strange breed," look for preparedness, poise, and interesting subjects. After each speech the speaker receives a critique, or ballot, from the judges

Aside from tournament competition, speakers also represent GHS at oratorical contests sponsored by local service clubs, such as Lions Club and Rotary Club

This year's Speech Team has both quality and experience. Two returning members reached National competition last year. Mike Mengoli has been with the team for four years and is ranked in the top 100 speakers in the country. The dedication and hard work of this group, coupled with the encouragement and expert advice of Coach Galvin, make for a winning team — one that brings honor and pride to Grossmont High School

The Academic Team plays it smart . . .

At the Academic Decathlon, the day after Grossmont's Homecoming, the Academic Team spent all day, from 8 A.M. to 5 P.M., taking six written tests. The tests were taken individually in science, economics, fine arts, social science, mathematics, and essay. Team members were also expected to give two speeches. The first was prepared, the second impromptu. There were three categories of competition. They were scholastic, honors, and varsity. John Daryl Thornton placed first in the county in interview in the scholastic category. As a whole, the Academic Team placed fifth in East County. At the end of the day, the nine teams met in the auditorium for a final competition called the Superquiz. One person from each team sat on the auditorium floor while the other members of the team watched from the bleachers. The person was asked five or six questions and their score was instantly known to everyone by the scoreboards placed directly behind each player.

The Decathlon was the first out of two competitions for the team. They prepared for it two mornings a week at 7 A.M. They practiced with the buzzers pictured below. The team worked diligently, at studying, memorizing, and practicing economic facts, different languages, and math problems. Their second competition was covered in eight different weeks and was as strenuous as the first competition. The team had a successful year with new advisors, Mrs. Lorenzen and Mr. Ashman.

First rate Academic Clubs strive for excellence

Faithfully, the Math Club met every Wednesday to prepare for the SDSU competition. Not only did they prepare themselves for their own competition, but they also helped fellow students prepare for the math section on the SAT. Along with these activities the club worked towards new goals of getting a math-computer center and starting their own Grossmont Invitational, which would be practice for the San Diego State competition.

AP Biology/Physiology students made up this year's Advanced Science Club. They had class four days a week, with a two hour lab every Wednesday morning which began at 6:50 and then held no class on Friday mornings. The club planned a week long field trip to Yosemite to study and research the animal life and another field trip to the tide-pools.

The Computer Club gave their best effort at trying to keep people aware of computers and to help familiarize them with new ones. The club gave demonstrations and went to La Jolla to see the new Super-Computer. They also planned a trip to see the Grossmont District's new computer. One of the club's unique qualities was that they could print, and they did their own newsletters. The club has gained in popularity which made for a good year.

Time out. Ben Giese takes time away from the microscope to record his observations of a mushroom sample.

Cycling Club — Motivated

Being relatively new this year, the Cycling Club has been a big hit. With competitive riders like Keith Easter and Jennifer Smith, the club was very motivated. Weekly rides around San Diego and local competitions kept the club moving.

Rolling Along. Junior Keith Easter makes it to the finish line, early.

Surf's Up. Sophomore John Hadden comes in from the water.

Surf Club — Part I and II

The Surf Club Parts I and II gave two meanings to the sport of surfing. Part I members were the ones who actually got in the water. Part II members were the dry ones with the binoculars. Both parts do share one thing — they love, surfing.

Ski Club — Still Popular

With a late snow fall this year the Ski Clubs Mammoth and Tahoe trips seemed impossible at first. Luckily everything went on schedule. Being one of the most popular clubs on campus the Ski Club provided fun and excitement for everyone.

Ski Bunnies. Juniors Lana R. Smith and Cle Quiencio were the first to slopes.

Skate Club — big success

Skateboarding one of today's most popular pastimes had much success at GHS. No one expected the first-time club to have such a big turnout. There are no local competitions for the skaters so they made due with backyard ramps.

Animation Club draws a new future

Animation Club was one of the newest clubs on campus. It was designed for those students who liked to draw. Some drew by hand, some painted, and some even designed them with their computers. The club's drawings and paintings can be found in the G.H.S. library. Many club members have attended animation conventions and museums looking at different types of art. Vinh Le put the club together not knowing what kind of response he would get, but his worries went for not as numerous students joined the club!

On your mark. Get set. GO! Brad Trimmer and Pierre Amadur race to see who can draw the best picture in a five minute period. The Animation Club sponsored numerous events like this one during their lunch time meetings.

Tumbleweeds roll with dignity and pride!

Tumbleweeds had an exciting and eventful year. They had many activities against the Daisy Chainers. Lori Hunt organized the club for the seniors who were not chosen for the Daisy Chain. The club tumbled into its third year of existence. Once again Dave Brown was the advisor of the club. The club held many fund raising activities. They held an organizational night at Penguin's Frozen Yogurt where they received twenty percent off all yogurt purchased there during the night. They sold See's suckers at the varsity baseball games and around campus. "We organized the club to honor those seniors who deserved to make the Daisy Chain, but were not picked to be a member," said Hunt. These seniors continued to prove that no matter who you are it is truly an honor to be a student at Grossmont!

Everybody be there! Advisor Dave Brown tells club members to go to Penguin's and buy their yogurt!

German Club: The German connection at Grossmont.

Foreign speakers gather for fun to share the friendships and fun of a language. The German Club members enjoyed many learning experiences. Being a part of this club meant making new friends, having fun, and participating in great fund raisers. The German Club made a lot of money for their great club. They should be proud.

The officers of the German Club are Jason McDonald V.P., Debbie DeGroot Treas., Nicole Kent Pres., Jeff Langston Sec., and Mr. Weill the advisor.

Rep Council sought improvements for Foothillers

Addressing a wide range of student concerns, the Rep Council continued to wield considerable influence in the areas of school environment and activities. Presided over by ASB Vice President Mike Mengoli, the group took action this year to improve cleanliness of student restrooms, close some gaps in balloting for Homecoming court by including Psych classes and selected the Student Affairs Commissioner. Monthly visits with Principal Bob Brady opened up communication with administration and reps brought classroom voiced concerns to the council for action.

Listening and taking notes, student reps deal with campus issues during meeting.

At the podium, ASB Secretary Holly Holt takes roll, Advisor Gloria Jones explains procedural channels for Homecoming activities; Jeff Mengoli, Student Affairs, discusses school improvement projects. Talking money, Senior President Michaeljohn Paul discusses budget.

After discussion, students in Mrs. Adams' AP English class vote on their choice for the Homecoming theme. The Hollywood theme won out.

Concentration. Debbie Britton displays her winning form in serving the ball

Cleats thudding against pigskin, shot putters groaning in an all out effort for victory, the sweet sounding swish of the ball through the hoop — during all seasons Grossmont's winning teams display never ending spirit. We all take pride in our teams — whether we participate or if we are only supportive fans.

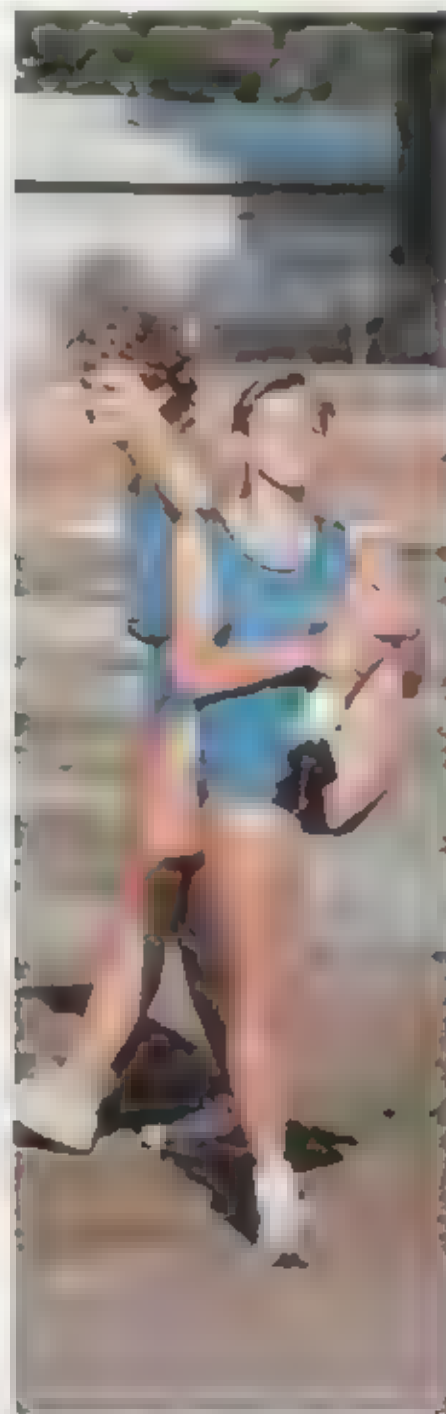

Becoming an athlete cannot be accomplished overnight. It takes many years to bring one to perfection. Extra time after school must be devoted to tedious and strenuous workouts. The agonized gasp of the distance swimmer, the rhythm of the sprinter's spikes attaining his stride, the repetitious swing of the batter — all of these things go toward perfecting the athlete.

All Hillers took pride in seeing our Varsity Football and Volleyball teams reach CIF. The spectators were just as important as the team in ensuring a successful season. The crowds witnessed many spectacular events this year and Hillers were proud.

Hillers are hot . . .

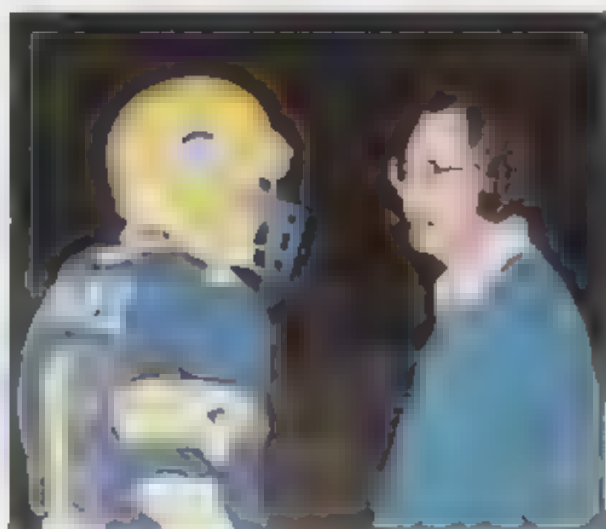

Hillers get to it, Hillers get it done

Our 1986 Varsity Football team did well this year. For the first time in eight years we tied with our rivals, Helix. We had possession of the musket for half the school year.

The defense showed their fighting power, holding our opponents to an average of eight points per game.

The offensive line came on strong by scoring quickly and consistently against all their opponents.

We all had plenty of enjoyable times at these games. This was just one way we all kept up our fighting Foothiller spirit throughout the 1986 season.

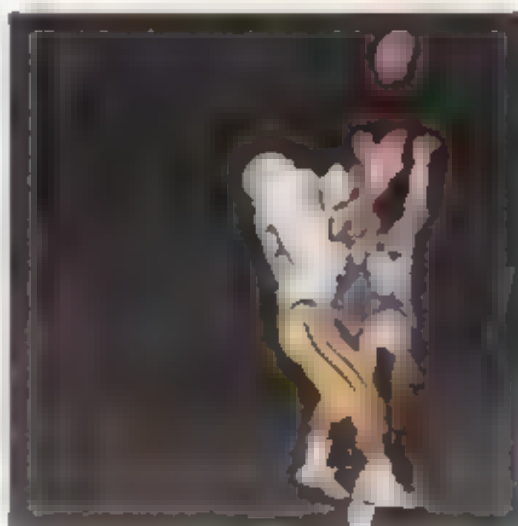

Tension mounts. Quarterback Mark Stillwell and coach Cole discuss the strategy in the game against Helix to tie.

Go for it. Erik Webb kicked for that extra point during a 10-7 victory for the mighty Hillers.

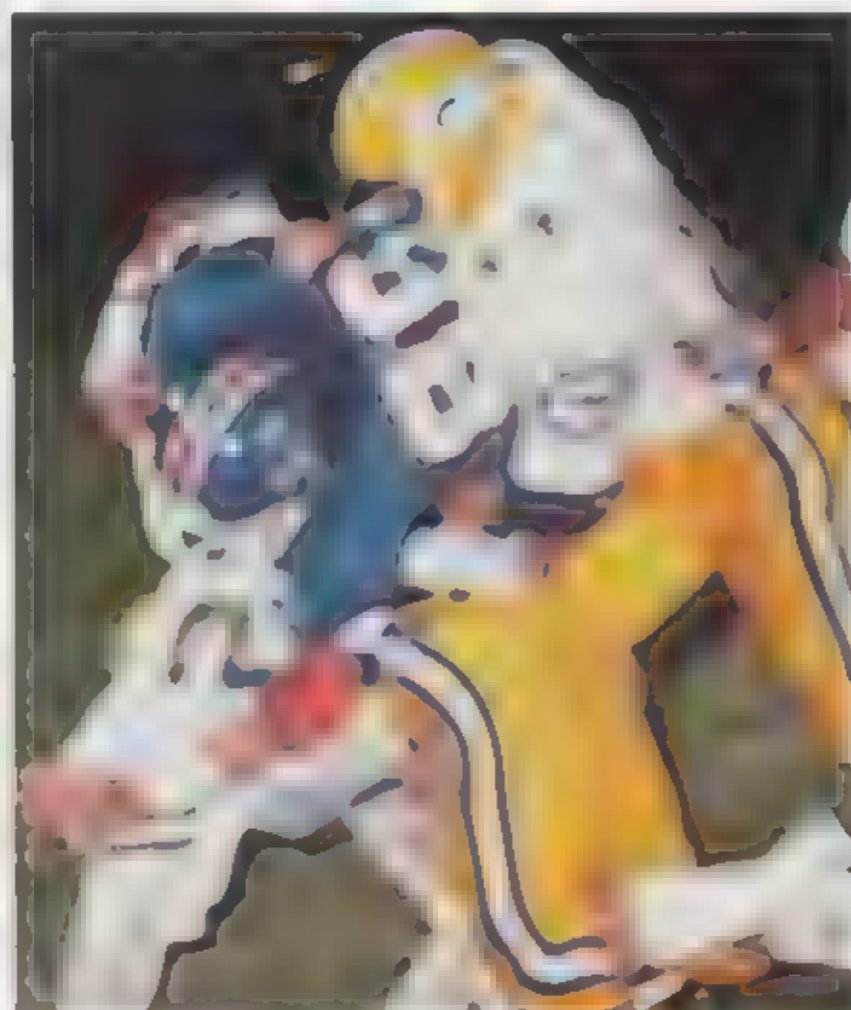

Hold them. The defensive line fires up to keep their opponents back from scoring a touchdown.

Reaching high, Ray Bassi fights for ball in game against Christian. Improved passing accounted for much of the increased scoring.

Head to head confrontation is the name of the game for linebacker Mike Frazier. Stingy defense led to the league title.

... Hillers reach the top

Intense play. Kevin Corcoran knocked the ball loose as the referee called the pass incomplete.

Double teaming a Christian ball carrier. Defensive backs Jerry Dorn (44) and Kevin Corcoran (41) in the crunch of a Hiller win.

GHS poloists stay afloat

Water Polo is an outstanding action filled game that tests your muscles, mind and endurance. Although there were few returning players, the water polo team was filled with new faces and new talent. Workouts began over summer and consisted of every day after school practice with occasional early morning sessions. The overall record of wins and losses was balanced and is evident that with hard work and determination the fighting Foothillers had a successful season. Coach Dave Kilmer said that he was very proud of the overall season

Hilliers run for respect

Grossmont's boys cross country team worked hard all year to be the best they could be. Summer workouts began on August 25, the first day the team could start formal training. They would run up to 5 miles a day the hot sun bearing down on them. The team also had to deal with a new coach, Mark Keller took on the coaching position. Although they had a disappointing year there were many good points to it. They had close meets with Granite Hills and El Cajon but lost both by a close margin. The team had no one star, but they always ran as a team. The team had a few returning people including Don Gibson who last year went to the C.I.F. finals.

Also returning was David Klein, an excellent runner who was a spirit lifter for the team.

Finishing 0-8, and in last place was a disappointment for the team. With the coaching of Mark Keller the team seems to be in good hands.

Lady Hillers run hard

Running for respectability, the young lady Hillers had a very impressive season. Under the guidance of rookie coach Mark Keller, the team had only two seniors, both of whom were in their first year on the team. Without the leadership of a "seasoned veteran" the team did what they knew best, RUN! Minus a home course they had to ride to Lindo Lake, Santee Lakes, and West Hills High School to run their meets. As the season tore on, senior Jennifer Smith took on the leadership role. Placing first in many of the races and sixth out of 150 in the annual Mt. SAC Invitational, Smith was the catalyst of the team. "Even though we were a young team, we ran consistently and we will be better in the years to come," stated Smith. With a 4-4 record and a fifth place finish in the league, the lady Hillers should become defiant contenders in a year or two, giving coach Keller something to look forward to!

Varsity Volleyball

... blocks its way
to CIF — again!

Hours of hard work and a lot of determination made our Varsity Volleyball team #1 in their league. Undefeated throughout the season, they made it to CIF. This was not unexpected since last year's team went to CIF also. The help and advice given by Coach Debbie Kane contributed greatly to the success of the team. "She really knows what she is talking about," stated Cptn. Colleen Wagner. "She's a good coach and a good friend." The team has a lot to be proud about this year and should be highly congratulated for their effort.

Power. Andrea Radmilovich spikes the ball to gain another awesome Hiller point. Sheer perfection. Making it look so easy, Kelly Hankins bumps the ball to the setter. Quick recovery. Even after a fall the team is still able to recover the ball quickly Ace. Setter, Wendy Dennis, starts the game off by serving an ace to the opposing team. Umph! Suzy Shutz goes up for a spike while the rest of the team covers her closely. Facing page. Wendy Dennis gets the ball to Barbara Dotson who is ready for a spike Grossmont Girls Tennis swings into action and ...

... it pays off

Varsity girls' tennis had another triumphant season placing third only behind first ranked Monte Vista and second ranked Valhalla. You could hear the squeaking of their shoes and you could see the determination in their faces as the season continued. Under the special guidance of coaches Bob and Kathy Bryant and through hard work they ended the season with a record of twelve wins and four losses. Their three strongest players were singles player Debbie Britton and doubles team Misha Fountain and Heather Ryan. Next year's team looks like they will place ever higher since Heather Ryan and Misha Fountain are the only two players who are graduating Umph! Misha Fountain watches her serve which kept her and Heather as top doubles. Aagh! First ranked Debbie Britton whizzes the ball by her opponent to win the match. Swoosh! Anna Discenza returns the ball with her backhand which has won her many matches. Time Out! Coach Bob and Kathy Bryant help Shawna improve both her forearm and game. Swoop! Marcia Herion lowers her racquet in order to hit the weak serve. Tap! Meghan Foster watches with a hopeful face to see if the ball will make it over.

Offensive potency helps JV Gridders pound league opponents on way to title

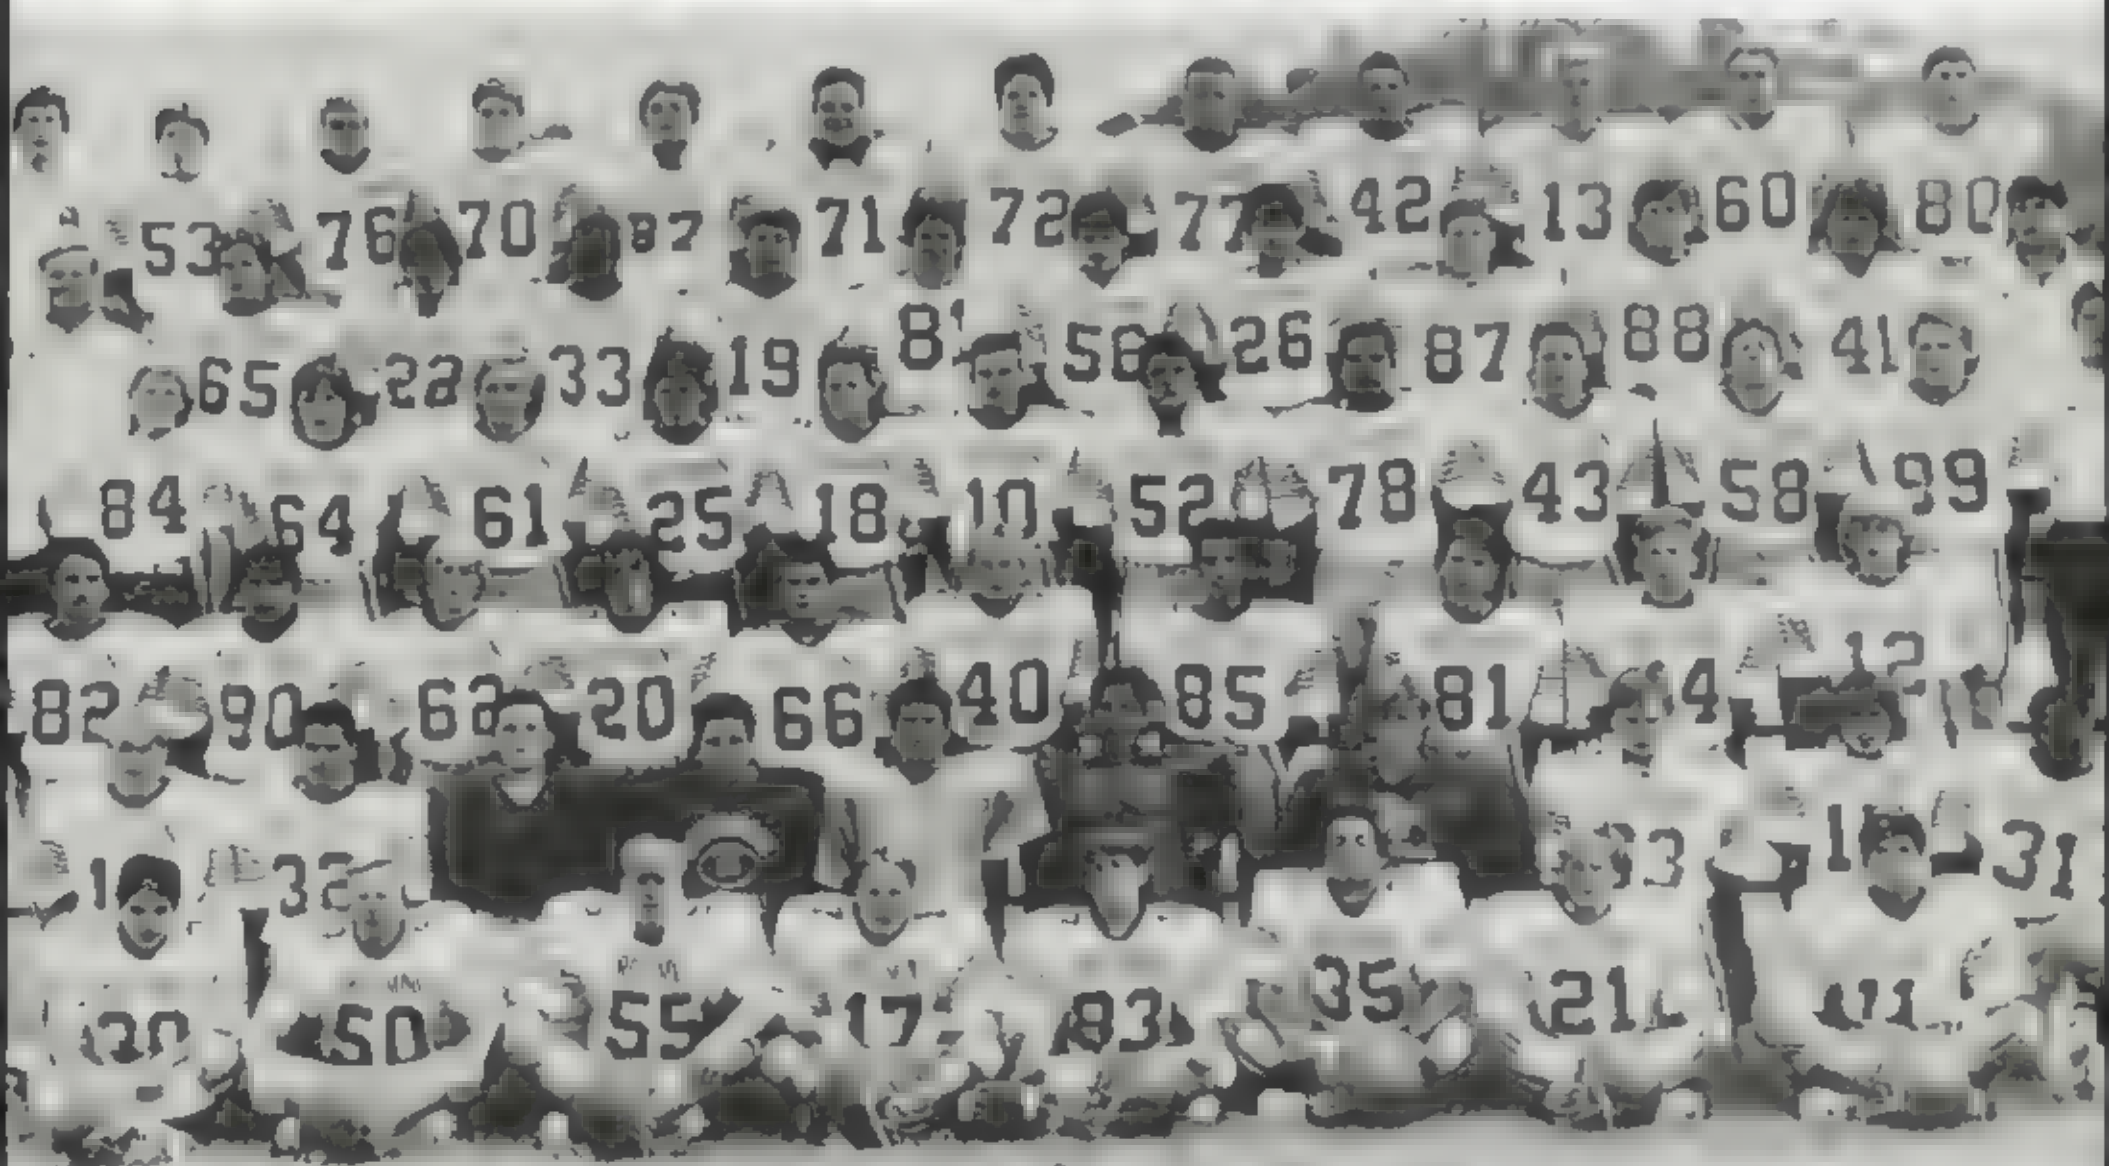

This year's Junior Varsity team showed incredible talent, drive, and determination throughout the entire season. Known for their great scoring abilities, it was not unusual for them to win a game by 25-30 points. This proved the team to be one of the best in its league. "They did it all themselves" claims Coach Jerry Ralph. "They knew what they wanted and went out and got it." All team members will look back and have many proud memories of the season. With this much to offer from the JV team, next year's Varsity season can only be better

Boys JV Cross Country sprints to victory

GHS feet pounded vigorously on both hard dusty roads and lush green grasses for miles and miles at a time. JV girls' Volleyball spikes their way up Smashing their way to the top, GHS's hardworking girls' JV Volleyball team placed a proud 2nd in the league. Practicing over the summer for about 4 hours a day, this young and enthusiastic team began then to strive for the very best. Hillers strong defense and patient offense ...

... pays off

Varsity boys basketball provided their fans with many exciting games this year. Again this year the Hillers were much smaller than their adversaries, so in order to compete the team had to be able to perform the basic fundamentals. Strong defense and a patient offense are trademarks of a Frank Foggiano coached team. With those ingredients the team had a very exciting and successful season!

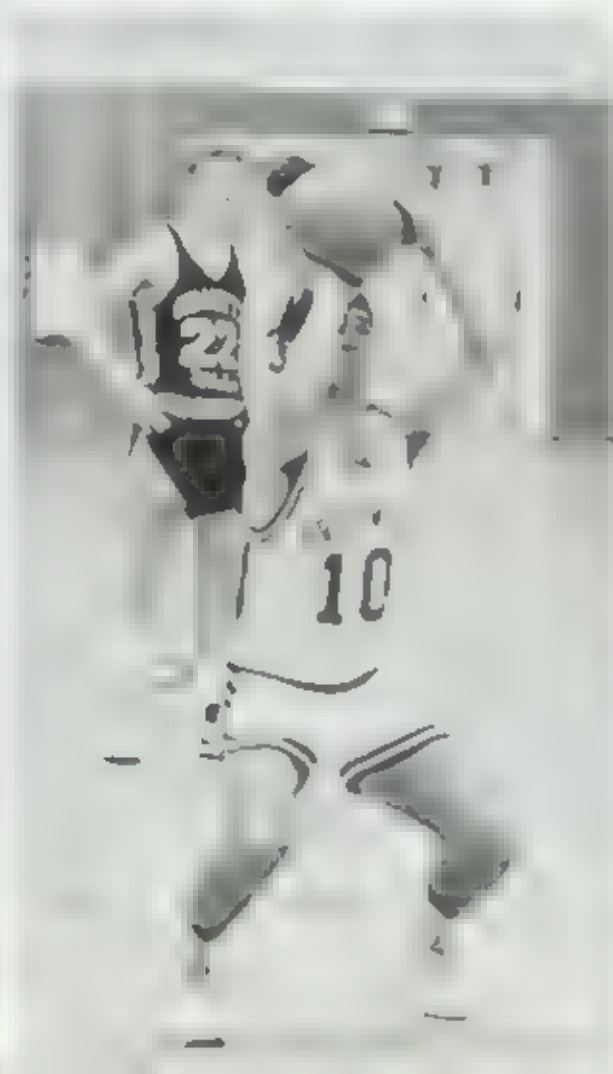

Hanging back! Jason Foggiano stays back to protect against the fast break, as a teammate shoots a free throw.

The game plan! Coach Foggiano discusses what play the team should run to take advantage of the other team's weakness.

1,2,3, GO! The team always gets in the huddle before the start of the game to give a cheer.

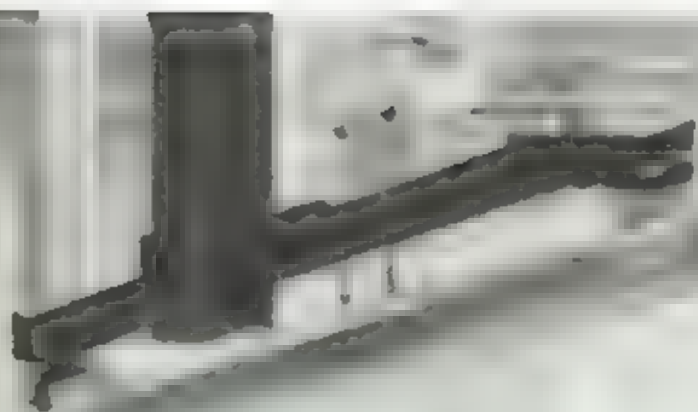

WIN OR LOSE? Noel Gillespie ices the game as he scores the winning points in the waning moments of a game.

Warming up! The team warms up before the game so they can get their shot down, so maybe they can sink a shot at the buzzer to win the game.

Exciting, entertaining, and enjoyable were a few of the words used to describe the varsity girls basketball team this year. Tony Camra was back for the second year to coach the girls, and he picked up a valuable assistant in the likes of Kathy Hamilton. The two put together a good team along with a solid game plan to lead the lady Hillers to a great season!

Girls Soccer kicks into another successful year

It was a tough season full of practices and hard work. And it all paid off once again as we heavily supported and cheered on our girls as they entered the playoffs. ... had potential.

Despite great potential, Hiller wrestling was a disappointment in 1987 primarily due to poor senior leadership. Several key seniors quit or did not perform to their ability and a 2-6 record resulted. Bright spots did exist however as the team won the 16 team Ramona Tournament for the third straight year and wrestled aggressively at the CIF 2A championships. Head coach Jud Hulbert saw some strong showing from sophomores Kevin Martin (101) and Brett Davis (108), juniors Jeff Eskridge (128) and Jesse Brennan (147) and seniors Jim Eskridge, Mike Savary (135) and Jerry Dorn.

The Grossmont J.V. boys basketball team is a team of winners. They have won all the games they have played. They are the best team in the Grossmont League. They are the best team in the Grossmont League. They are the best team in the Grossmont League.

Lack of size, lack of depth, and the strength of the Grossmont league proved costly to the J.V. boys basketball team as they suffered through a disappointing season. Under the guidance of Charlie Porter, the fourth year mentor, the team learned the basic fundamentals of the game. Although they didn't win many games, they learned to play an aggressive man-to-man defense and the complex offense. These are important for these athletes to advance to the varsity level!

G.H.S. girls beat the best. Grossmont's J.V. girls basketball team is a team with spirit. Coordination, expert skills, and enthusiasm show truly through all of G.H.S.'s blue and gold tradition. The key players of the season are Sandra Devenberg and Linda Sodano. The whole team worked hard all season with the help of Coach Ridgeway. Experience was gained and skills sharpened.

JV wrestlers show talent throughout the season

There was a lot of talent this year coming from first and second year wrestlers. Coaches Dave Brown and Mike Mendoza worked intensively with the wrestlers helping them perfect their skills during practice. Known for their wrestling ability David Teeter, JR LaBruno and Bob Danforth participate on JV and Varsity. Other outstanding wrestlers were Jeff Mengoli, Paul Do.

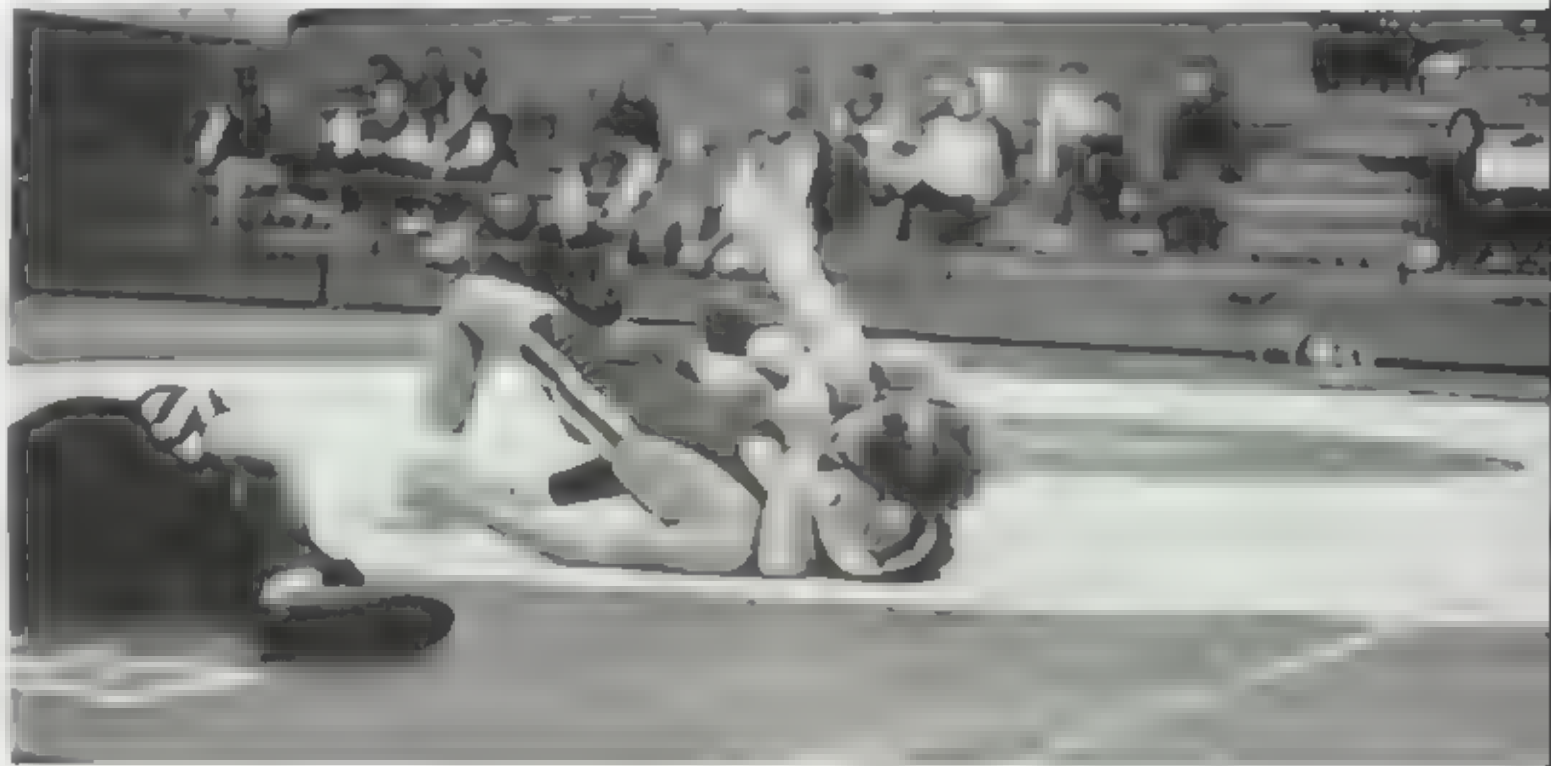

Steve Ritchie and Rich Williams. Grossmont held it's first JV tournament this year. No Varsity lettermen were allowed so all first year wrestlers had an equal chance to place in their weight class. Out of 13 schools competing in the tournament, Grossmont took second place in team points. With talent like this on JV, next year's Varsity season should be fantastic.

Matmaids show their pride for the GHS wrestlers

Over the years matmaids have never really been recognized for what they have done. This year it was hard not to notice them. Besides being there to cheer on the wrestlers they were on mat's edge ready to take down stats and write notes for the coaches. In order to do these tasks, the girls had to know all the basic moves of wrestling which include takedowns, nearfalls, reversals, etc., and know how many points were awarded for each move. This year GHS held its first JV tournament. Having the matmaids there was crucial to the outcome of the tournament. The matmaids also had a big part in the planning of the awards ceremony. All the coaches agree that the matmaids were essential to having a successful season.

Determination, hard work and intense practices were the driving forces behind the 1987 boy's varsity baseball team. Starting in early March, the team began a series of practices, working on batting and fielding skills. The strength behind the team this year was a firm defense and a strong lineup of returning players including Doug Davis, Lance Dickson, and Mike Clavell. Coach Gray commented at the beginning of the year that the strength of the players supported by the skills of returning players would assure an exciting season, as well as one that saw the championship playoffs at the end of the season

Varsity softball slides into spring

Shunning the image of just powder puff baseball players, the 1987 girls' varsity softball team looked forward to an exciting season of hits, runs, and grand-slams. Tryouts took place in late February, and after the team was assembled, the girls attended regular practices to work extensively on developing their field and batting skills. A strong team was chosen this year with new varsity members as well as with the returning powers of pitcher Suzy Shutz, shortstop Sharon Sodano, and first baseman Monica Selvig. Coach Sutton set high goals for his team this year. With the strong defense and relentless offense, he believed that the girls had what it took to make it to CIF.

Fielding the ball, shortstop Sharon Sodano prepares to throw a runner out at first base.

Second baseman Jennifer Strauss works on her fielding skills during practice.

Working quickly, Barbara Dotson waits for the ball to throw out a runner attempting to steal second base.

Third baseman Linda Sodano quickly reacts to the ball and throws it to first base.

Working on speed and accuracy, pitcher Brenna Hancock follows through a motion.

Before the start of the swim season, the swimmers were busy raising money for the purchase of weights and swim benches to aid in their training. The main purpose was to help develop certain muscles without being in the water and to help perfect their stroke technique. With this help and the addition of two other new assistant coaches along with Head coach Judd Hulbert, the boys' team was very successful in deepening their skills and competition level. All of their hard work and dedication were sure to pay-off

Golfers overcome elements, opponents for fine year

Golf, once a sport for the rich, elderly or famous, has new status for the yuppie generation and at Grossmont enjoyed popularity and success on the course. A fairly strong top five players with the help of coach Mary Swingle was very competitive. "She (Swingle) really encouraged us," stated senior Mike Huish. Blustery winds and wet weather cancelled some practices but according to Huish didn't halt team interest because "wind and turf conditions are just part of the game." Singing Hills was the squad's home course and low scores were not uncommon. CIF time saw the golfers active

J.V. baseball produces another exciting year

Coach, Tony Camara, returned for his second year at the helm of the Grossmont J.V., and led them to a very exciting year! Most of the players, having played together all through Little League, were already acquainted with each other, and making it easier to play together as a team. The team possessed a strong defense along with a potent offense, and with this they were able to win a lot of exciting games. The season was a steppingstone towards the varsity.

J.V. softball has a good year

With few returning players the J.V. softball team was inexperienced and untested. Under the guidance of coach Robert Peairs the team responded well and had a respectable year. The team spent many hours working on the fundamentals of the game during practice. This enabled the team to play strong defensively and remain close during the tight games. The team played well as a unit, and therefore were able to win many games.

JV Swimmers ride strong wave of varsity success

Starting out the year on the right foot, Grossmont's JV swim team was off to a good start by beating Valhalla, in their first league meet. The team has done well in past years and was expected to do good again this year. Winning their first two meets gave them the incentive for a productive season.

Young tracksters perfect skills in tough league race

It's the last lap. Fatigue is setting in, muscles are aching, and they run towards the finish line, determined to win. What sport you might ask? It's track, a sport often overlooked by many, yet these athletes work just as hard as any others. This year's JV track team was working towards a great season. Pointing out both sides. Principal Brady speaks at an all-senior assembly about the possibilities of having graduation at either SDSU or GHS. By majority vote, this year's graduation will be the first to be held at Grossmont's own stadium.

Grossmont's students are known for their success. Often unnoticed though are the molders, the faculty, who contributed many hours to help students needs. Coaching, serving food, typing report cards, writing recommendations, and helping to keep our campus clean, are a few tasks that help GHS function.

Teachers were always going to meetings and workshops to improve not only their own abilities but to help make GHS a higher quality school. Experimenting with new ways of teaching through projects, student activities, and abstract games made learning and teaching interesting. Faculty members set a good example by both spirit and pride by decorating on blue and gold days, helping out with homecoming, and participating in pep assemblies. The GHS faculty has shown a great amount of dedication.

With a smile, Mr. Brown shows his pride by sitting in a jail booth on Homecoming. Many faculty members helped students raise money for various clubs by participating in the Homecoming festivities.

Administration strives for success in 1987

Grossmont is very lucky to gain a fine principal like Robert Brady. Together with administrative vice principals and counselors, he has accomplished a great deal. The 1987 school year with Brady has been a productive one. Brady encouraged seniors to be the first to have graduation here. He has also continued many committees. Counselor Joan Gangwisch and Marty Akin worked hard to publish a bi-weekly scholarship bulletin so seniors could take advantage of the money offered to them, while vice principals had a hard year because of a new tardy policy which made it necessary to enforce strict rules.

Special education soars beyond limits

Special education teachers dedicated time and energy to help physical, mental, and emotionally handicapped students within the Grossmont boundary. Rather than putting students in classes above their level, special education classes were geared to the ability of the students. Special services were also provided. This year, the faculty helped students write their senior memories. With Dr. Blazovic as director, the special education department motivated students to work hard, and accomplish goals. Though on a designated area of campus, the special education faculty and students shared some of the facilities with Grossmont and functioned like an ordinary high school would.

Office staff backs instructional program

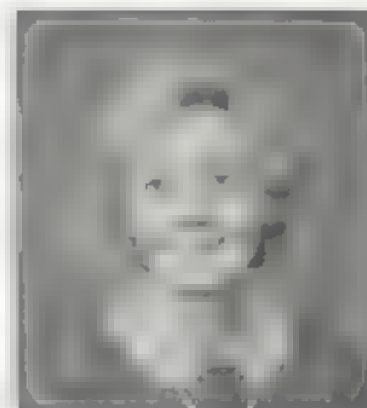

The classified staff, or perhaps more familiar, the office staff, helps students and teachers with various details. Because the office staff keeps track of school records, schedules, and report cards, this group can be considered the organization of GHS. Students often confront these workers when making appointments with counselors, or reporting to the attendance window because of a tardy or absence. The tasks performed by the classified staff are not always seen, but the results make GHS an efficient and organized high school. With the friendly smiles of the office staff, the true pride of Grossmont can be sensed by visitors throughout the year.

With the recognition GHS has received after the first grading period, Grossmont students and teachers need to appreciate the hard work and pride the "crew" has shown. The groundsmen kept the landscape trimmed, and cleaned up after lunch, while the custodians worked the evening hours straightening up the classrooms for the following day. The campus utility man was often seen transporting equipment and repairing items. Not only are the students and teachers deserving of recognition for Grossmont's clean campus, but more deservingly the campus crew.

Do you have a special message or special quote to the senior class?

Go with the flow but don't eat the yellow snow. — R. Peairs

You can do almost anything you want if you're willing to work hard. — T. Klund

Maintain a positive outlook on life in ALL situations — J. Weill

I hope you are as happy with your life's work as I am. — K. Adams

'This guy could have climbed the highest mountain in the world — if he'd just started up the right one.' — G. Anderson

Your dreams of today can become realities for tomorrow. — S. Wakefield

Keeping tabs, Bill Bradley shows Ida Sylvester her grade before the Pre Calculus final. Many teachers spent a lot of time recording points.

Ads

Who ever asks the question, "How is the annual paid for?" or "How does the staff cover cost of production and the printing of pictures?" No body. Most people assume they pay for their book and that's the end of things. For the Annual staff, it's just the start. Each member of the staff is required to sell a certain amount of advertising space.

There are two types of ads that can be sold. The first is to businesses. There are great benefits for businesses when they advertise in the yearbook. Not only the students see ads, but friends and family do also. The second type of ad is a personal ad. Personal ads usually have one or more pictures of the buyer/buyers and a paragraph of memories. Personal ads are something that students will always have to remember and cherish.

Everyone benefits from ads. The staff raises money to pay for the book. Businesses are excited to advertise and students have their memories.

Taking a break. The Pepsi vending machine is frequently visited by students during the day to buy sodas.

Boyd Anderson. Along with taking the senior pictures, Boyd Anderson takes all the color pictures for the annual.

Conroy's Florist is helpful when students need flowers for special events and dances

I need a break! Term projects, finals and grades create tension in the air throughout the last few weeks of school. Mr. Brown needs a break after a long stressful year of supervising the 1987 Yearbook Staff.

Closing

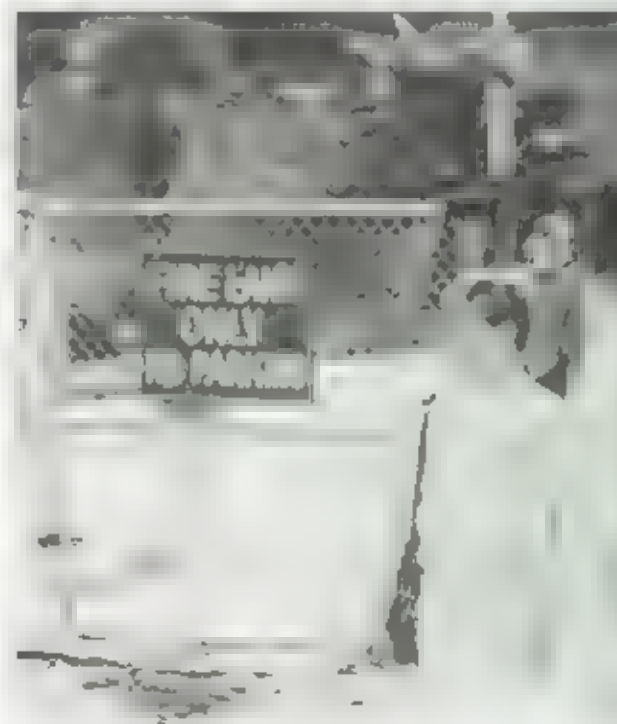

It has been a long year full of ups and downs. Most of us have finally made it through the good and bad times to the long and eagerly awaited summer vacation.

For many, the last day of high school is rapidly approaching. We have traveled four long years down a road with no end yet in sight. They have seen many different sights and felt many different feelings and have completed a segment in their lives that may never be equalled. However, there will always be memories to look back on and times to remember that will always be special and never be forgotten. We are unsure of what we will have to face in the future. Many struggles and accomplishments, pain and happiness, new friends and old friends along the way. Although we leave Grossmont, we take with us many great memories, knowledge and preparations for what lies ahead. Knowing that we have made it through high school in one piece, we know that there are no challenges ahead that will be too great to overcome.

Where's the beach? Todd Yarbrough screams with excitement at the thought that summer's ahead, bringing a life at the beach for three months straight.

Joining the crowd. With the sound of the final bell, ending another school day, students gather their books and head for home.

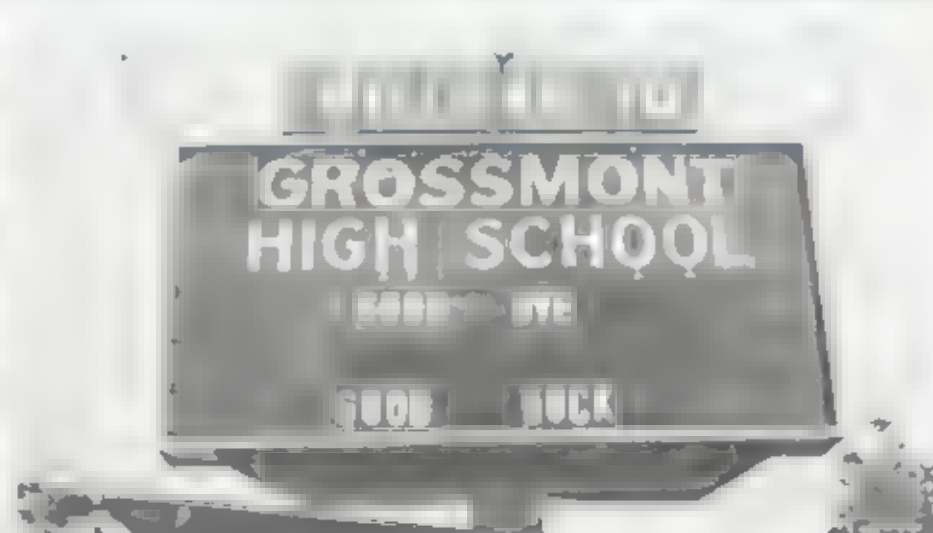

Anticipation mounts. Looking forward to the future, Renee Marinesi, Ruthann Earley, and Dotty Lange want to end the "senioritis."

Turner,

fully back to school I met some of the boys & had fun at the school & they were all pretty good. I was only in there for a few days and then a real good time was had at the school and especially the boys who were in the school and the girls who were in the school.

And that's all folks!

Those famous last words. A message of encouragement sends graduating students on their way to face new challenges in the future. The message is "GOOD BUCK" and it is a message of encouragement and support for the students who are leaving the school.
